Russia Opposes U. N. Council Investigation of Spain

Gromyko Says Evidence Leaves No Doubt Franco Endangers World Peace

Soviet Stand Causes Confused Debate; No Decision Is Reached

COUNCIL ADJOURNS UNTIL 11 A. M. TODAY

Moscow Takes Position against Six Members, Including U. S.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 25. (AP) — A blunt Russian stand against any investigation of Franco Spain by a United Nations Security Council commission stalled the council today and caused a three and a half hour confused debate which ended without a decision.

The council adjourned at 6:35 p. m. until 11 a. m. EST tomorrow after arguing in vain over a rapid succession of resolutions and amendments which had council members thoroughly bewildered at times.

Andrei A. Gromyko, the Russian delegate, summed up a long speech with the declaration that evidence already put before the council left "no doubt that the Fascist regime of Franco, as it exists at present in Spain, is indeed a serious danger for international peace and security."

British Appeal Is Unheeded

"In view of this fact," he said, "it is not necessary to set up any kind of commission or committee to study this question."

"In the presence of an abundance of facts and evidence which confirm the accusations against the Fascist regime made by the Polish delegate, the formation of a committee could only have a negative effect both on world public opinion and upon the democratic forces of Spain herself," Gromyko said.

He remained unshaken in his stand against a proposal by the Australian delegate, Lt.-Col. W. R. Hodgson, for a commission to inquire into the affairs of the Madrid government despite a direct appeal by Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate.

"I appeal to my Soviet colleague not to oppose that entirely," Cadogan said.

Lange Adds to Confusion

Gromyko thus stood opposed to six of the eleven-member council, taking a position against the United States, Australia, Britain, the Netherlands, Mexico and Brazil. The Chinese and Egyptian delegates did not enter into the discussion today.

Poland, whose delegate, Dr. Oscar Lange, precipitated the Spanish controversy by offering a resolution demanding a complete diplomatic break with Franco Spain by the United Nations, added to the confusion late in the session by of-

U. S. and France Clash with Reds At Paris Meeting

Russian Minister Opposes Austrian and German Proposals

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, April 25. (AP)—Official quarters said tonight the United States and France had clashed with Russia on Austrian and German issues this afternoon at the opening of the four-power peace treaty conference of foreign ministers.

Proposals made by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault that the conference consider a settlement with Austria and internationalization of the Ruhr basin met with stiff opposition from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, these reports said.

The opposition arose as the ministers of these three nations and Britain assembled to map their agenda for the meeting, called at the suggestion of Byrnes to break the deadlock over the drafting of peace treaties with Italy and other vanquished nations.

At the end of the initial meeting, which lasted three hours, the ministers failed to reach an agreement, and the questions of Austria and the Ruhr were passed over until their meeting tomorrow at 4 p. m. (10 a. m., EST).

Later in the evening the fournation secretariat issued an official communique describing the opening ceremonies but omitting any reference to possible disagreements.

Bidault won the fight for France to sit in, but without a vote, on the discussions of all peace treaties.

Head of Southern Coal Producers Criticizes Lewis

Burke Denies U. S. Steel Is Blocking Bituminous Negotiations

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—Edward R. Burke, head of the Southern Coal Producers' Association, asserted tonight that John L. Lewis intended to withhold his specific wage demands until the country was "in peril."

Burke issued a statement in which he foresaw no quick end to the twenty - five - day - old bituminous coal strike. Negotiations for a new contract have been broken off since Lewis walked out on April 10. He has not made his wage demands specific, concentrating on a demand for a health and welfare fund.

Burke, former Nebraska senator, attacked, at a news conference, a statement made by the UMW president at Hazleton, Pa., conference of anthracite miners, to the effect that United States Steel Corporation was blocking the bituminous negotiations.

Burke described Lewis's charge as "plain unadulterated buncombe." He also issued a formal statement praising the efforts of United States Steel's representative in the negotiations as being "constructive and intelligent." Burke said his formal statement represented the unanimous views of the spokesmen for the commercial operators.

The steel company's negotiator is Harry M. Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company, Pittsburgh.

Burke told reporters that it was "time" the public became aroused over the economy paralysis which could result from a prolonged strike.

He said that the Senate could remove "two obstacles" toward making a contract by: (1) Defining employes under the Wagner Labor Relations act "as Congress clearly intended it" to exclude supervisory workers from the act: (2) enact a general bill—not limited to James C. Petrillo or to Lewis—making it illegal to demand an excess tax upon the product of a union's employer.

Two of Lewis's nine contract proposals were for "adjustment of the controversy" over unionization of supervisory workers and creation of the health and welfare fund financed by a tonnage levy.

The southern association president said that Lewis appeared to be seeking a wage increase "sufficiently higher than Philip Murray or other labor leaders were able to get to show that he is the greatest in the country."

Burlington's Exposition Flyer Plows into Rear Of Line's Advance Flyer

TRAIN WAS TRAVELING OVER 60 MILES AN HOUR

Locomotive Telescopes Three Quarters Length of Rear Coach

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP)—The Burlington railroad's Exposition Flyer, streaking west from Chicago at a better than sixty-mile-an-hour clip, crashed into the rear of the line's advance Flyer today, killing at least forty-two and perhaps more than fifty persons—and injuring about 125.

Eight hours after the collision, worst in the railroad's history, rescue workers had failed to cut their way completely through the wreckage in a search for bodies.

The Diesel locomotive, its front wheels sheared off by the impact, telescoped three quarters the length of the rear of the Advance Flyer and train crewmen expressed the belief as many as fifteen bodies might be wedged under the engine.

The Red Cross, which hurriedly set up disaster relief headquarters at the scene of the wreck, estimated the dead would run over fifty and that 125 were injured. The agency said it had accounted for forty-eight bodies.

42 Known Dead

Forty known dead were accounted for in Naperville mortuary establishments and in hospitals. At least seventy-eight injured were taken to hospitals in Aurora.

Rescue workers late tonight recovered the bodies of one soldier and one civilian from wreckage in next to the end coach of the Advance Flyer.

The collision was the second fatal accident in less than three weeks involving the Exposition Flyer, which runs between Chicago and San Francisco. Two persons were killed and seventy-seven injured April 5 when the train jumped the tracks at Pilot, Nev., after being switched onto a siding.

The collision today occurred when the Advance Flyer, bound for Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., made an unscheduled stop at this Chicago suburb, apparently when trouble developed in the undercarriage of the train.

The Diesel-powered Exposition Flyer, bound for San Francisco, rammed into the rear of the Advance Flyer one block from the Naperville station, in view of scores of persons.

Coach Is Rent Asunder

The impact threw the bodies of some victims from the windows of passenger car. The sides of the metal coach were rent asunder and turned back like cardboard, witnesses said.

Relief workers quickly removed the bodies of dead and injured from the car, piling them along the right of way between the coach and a fence paralleling the line. All

WARRANT CHARGING MANSLAUGHTER IS ISSUED FOR ENGINEER

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP) — State's Attorney Lee Daniels announced tonight that a warrant charging manslaughter had been issued for W. W. Blaine, Galesburg, Ill., engineer of the Burlington railroad's Exposition Flyer, which plowed into the rear of the line's Advance Flyer here this afternoon.

Daniels told reporters it was simply a measure to make sure that Blaine would be available for an inquest into deaths resulting from the wreck.

Chungking Says Communists Have Occupied Harbin

Government Suffers Second Major Manchurian Defeat in Week

By HAROLD K. MILKS

CHUNGKING, April 25 (AP)—The Chinese government acknowledged today its second major defeat in Manchuria within a week, conceding that Communists were seizing unopposed the northern metropolis of Harbin.

Minister of Information K. C. Wu said Harbin, city of 520,000, was given up as lost to the Communists "who already are in the city." The last Russian soldier was due to leave by nightfall.

A Communist spokesman declared he believed Communist troops occupying Harbin and Changchun would resist all outside pressure to "surrender these cities to the central government."

Changchun, Manchuria's capital, fell to overwhelming Communist forces after a savage, four-day battle ending last Thursday.

"The Kuomintang chose to fight," said the Communist, "instead of accepting a neutral proposal that they cease fighting and occupy the Mukden-Harbin rail line and the cities thereon.

"Now that the Communists have beaten them into Harbin and Changchun after fighting it will be most difficult to turn those cities over to the Kuomintang (government party.")

A dispatch from Nanking quoted Lt. Gen. Chao Chia-Hsiang, government chief of staff in Manchuria, as saying there a few days ago he would tell Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that his generals were losing their stomach for the Manchurian fighting and wanted a settlement.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Peiping said Gen. Chao stopped there en route back to Manchuria from Chungking and reported the generalissimo was "very concerned.")

"Salome" Dance Is Denied Broadway; Law Prevents It

By JEAN SMALL

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—In a flood of disappointed tears, the 16-year-old schoolgirl whose "Salome" dance surprised Van Dyke, Mich., saw her dreams of a Broadway success go glimering tonight.

One hour before shapely Beverly Ann Cort was to dance on Broadway—in Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe—police said she couldn't perform.

Liquor laws forbid any person under 18 to perform as an entertainer in any place where liquor is sold.

Beverly wept when she heard the news, and then sat disconsolately at a ringside table to watch the floor show she wasn't in.

"All I want to do is just dance—once," she said.

As the loudspeaker announced to the capacity crowd that Beverly could not appear, she got up and took a bow, blushing and smiling. She was introduced as "Beverly (Salome) Cort."

A spokesman for Billy Rose said the girl would receive her $200 a week for the two weeks that she had been scheduled to perform, and added that an attempt would be made to arrange for her to appear at a Broadwy theater.

"We can't bear to disappoint the kid," he said.

Beverly had planned to do the same dance in the same costume as the one she wore back home in Van Dyke. It consists of a black, strapless bra and a black skirt down to the knee, slit up the sides.

When she first did the dance, a teacher criticized her and some students went on strike until they were assured she would not be punished.

She was asked to describe the dance Broadway may never see.

"I guess you'd call it sinuous and passionate," she said, and took a sip of milk.

Strike of Railroad Trainmen, Engineers Is Set for May 18

Walkout Is Ordered after Two Brotherhoods Reject Recommendations of Fact-Finding Board; Three Other Operating Brotherhoods To Seek Further Wage Boosts

CLEVELAND, April 25 (AP) — Two rail brotherhoods, rejecting the report of the presidential fact-finding board, today set May 18 for a strike that could paralyze the nation's rail system.

A few hours later three other operating brotherhoods termed "inadequate" an arbitration award in another dispute with the nation's railroads, and announced they would seek further increases.

The strike date was set by general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who previously had scheduled a strike early in March to enforce their demands for increased wages and changes in working rules.

Tonight the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Switchmen's Union of North America said that on May 3 they would serve notice on the carriers "for further wage increases," declaring an arbitration board's award of a sixteen cents an hour increase "is wholly inadequate, and provided no adjustments whatever for gross inequities."

Talks Open Next Monday

Fifteen non-operating rail unions already have filed similar notices, declaring they would seek fourteen cents an hour in addition to the sixteen awarded to them in arbitration. The eighteen organizations had agreed to arbitration of their demands, but the trainmen and engineers had not, the case of the latter two being handled by the fact-finding board. Only the trainmen and engineers have issued strike calls.

David B. Robertson, president of the firemen and enginemen, made tonight's announcement, on behalf of himself and H. W. Fraser, president of the conductors, and T. C. Cashen, president of the switchmen.

The trainmen and engineers' strike call was issued from a two-day conference called to consider the fact-finding board's report

Dissatisfied with the recommendations, President A. F. Whitney, of the trainmen's brotherhood, told the conference: "Now is the psychological time to press down on these railroads and get our rule changes through."

Whitney and Alvanley Johnston, grand chief Engineer of the engineers' brotherhood, declared the strike order would "not be called off until a satisfactory settlement is reached."

The two brotherhoods and the carriers meet next Monday at Chicago to attempt to negotiate differences.

348 Railroads Affected

If the strike were allowed to go forward, it would be the first general railroad walkout since the historic Pullman strike of 1894. To prevent suspension of rail transportation, the government could seize and operate the roads, but before that, railroad sources in Washington pointed out, President Truman might appoint a second emergency board to avert a tie-up.

Board recommendations were for a sixteen-cent hourly wage increase and certain rules changes. The brotherhoods asked for wage increases averaging twenty-five per cent and forty-five changes in working rules.

The board granted no benefits to dining car stewards, and this was one of the issues of greatest contention.

Trainmen and engineers, with a combined membership of 293,000, represent fifteen per cent of all railroad employes in the country. The trainmen's membership, numbering about 215,000, embraces

U. S. Brushes Off Agency Directive On Food for Japs

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The United States tonight brushed off a Far Eastern Commission directive on food shipments to Japan with the contention that it already was following the policy laid down by that body.

Here was the day's sequence of unusual events:

1. The commission — eleven-nation Allied policy-making agency for Japan—adopted with United States concurrence a policy statement asking this country to reconsider immediately its commitment to send half a million tons of food to Japan by July 1.

2. In the same statement, the commission told the United States not to give the Japanese any food priority over hard-pressed peoples of Allied nations or liberated areas, except where food imports were "essential immediately for the safety of the occupation forces."

3. Several hours later, Assistant Secretary of State John H. Hilldring, speaking for the government, declared in effect that the United States had followed the "no priority" policy for Japan all along. He ignored completely the commission's request for a review of current food shipments.

4. An hour later, after reporters

Tel Aviv Battle Leaves Six Dead And 13 Wounded

Armed Group Attacks Camp of British Royal Engineers

JERUSALEM, April 25 (AP) — Six British soldiers and police were killed and thirteen Britons and Jews were wounded tonight, private sources said, when an armed group attacked a camp of British Royal Engineers and a car parking area in the southern part of Tel Aviv. No official report was issued immediately.

The attacking group was believed to be composed of Jews, the informants said. However, it was not immediately clear whether the wounded Jews, including one woman, had participated in the fighting or were passersby.

Military and police detachments rushed to the scene. Armored cars also were sent toward Tel Aviv. These military vehicles carried huge searchlights which were thrown on suddenly at spots where it was suspected the attackers might be hiding.

The six dead were reported to include five British airborne division soldiers and one British constable. The wounded included two British soldiers, nine Jewish men and a Jewish woman and a Jewish police corporal who was hit by a stray bullet.

Earlier advices had said the attacks were made on two police stations in Tel Aviv. Apparently, however, only the military camp and the parking area were attacked.

The attack on the engineers' camp and also on a car parking area began late tonight when two heavy explosions, presumably caused by mines, were heard throughout Tel Aviv, a Jewish coastal city thirty miles northwest of Jerusalem. Machine gun fire was heard for hours.

Informants said at least one girl was observed among the attackers. The attacking group was reported to have fled in the direction of a nearby quarter for Oriental Jews. This quarter was quickly surrounded by police and military detachments which arrived on the scene.

Nazi Bomb, 350 Yards From Buckingham Palace, Is Still Ticking

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—"Annie," the half-ton delayed action German bomb which came to life after five years of inactivity, was still ticking tonight at the bottom of its thirty-foot shaft 350 yards from Buckingham palace.

Water seeping into the shaft made detection apparatus less sensitive and caused a false report today that the bomb had been neutralized.

The bomb disposal squad said it would be detonated at 7 p. m., tomorrow if it does not go off in the meantime.

All residents in the bomb area were instructed to open their windows next to the park to lessen the damage if "Annie" explodes.

The bomb is one of three dropped in St. James park in 1941. The other two were removed last February.

Reds' Reply to Note on Manchuria Is Reported To Be Unsatisfactory

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The State department received from Moscow today a statement of Russian policy on Manchurian industry which American officials regard as unsatisfactory, it was reported on excellent authority tonight.

The note came in response to an American message to the Russian foreign ministry early last month which asked the Russians what was going on in Manchuria, advised them what the Chinese said about it and in effect protested the Russian actions and policies.

Today's reply was regarded by some authorities here as virtually a rejection of the American protest over the richest and most highly-developed area in Asia. Others regarded the note initially as being "unsatisfactory" but studied it carefully for possible openings which could lead to a satisfactory solution of the Manchurian problem.

The United States, in effect, had accused Russia of removing all sorts of industrial equipment from Manchuria during the period of Red army occupation.

The Russians were also accused of having tried to work out exclusive ownership arrangements with China covering vital mines, power plants, iron and steel industries and others.

In a note of early March, China in effect confirmed both the Amer-

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 25 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray said today that "perhaps millions" of government workers might be organized into the CIO.

He spoke before the convention of a new union which decided to call itself the United Public Workers of America (CIO).

The new group is a merger of two CIO unions, the United Federal Workers of America and the State, County and Municipal Workers of America. They claim a total membership of about 75,000.

President Leads Nation in Final Tribute to Chief Justice Stone

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—In the presence of a solemn president, brief, simple funeral services were held today for Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone.

Within vaulted Washington cathedral, at the crest of the capital's highest hill, many of the great of government and hundreds of humble people offered final honor to the eminent jurist who died Monday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

In formal, black afternoon attire, a high silk hat resting on his lap, President Truman sat in a front row with his family. He had interrupted a vacation cruise to return to Washington for the services.

Behind him sat Charles Evans Hughes, the man Stone succeeded as chief justice in 1940. Farther back were current members of the court, members of Congress and the cabinet, and men in uniform.

To one side were representatives of the diplomatic corps. Just across the aisle from Mr. Truman were the justice's heavily-veiled widow and two sons, Dr. Marshall H. Stone, Cambridge, Mass., and Col. Lauson Stone, New York.

In accordance with Justice Stone's wishes, the services were short, dignified and devoid of eulogies. There were familiar hymns—"O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and "The Strife Is O'er, the Battle Done."

There was only one personal touch, one mention of Justice Stone's name. An old friend, the Rev. Fleming James, dean of the theological seminary at the University of the South, Suwanee, Tenn. inserted this tribute into a prayer:

"Not as a great public officer do we remember him now, but as a friend; understanding, companionable, kind, true, humble, simple of heart, courageous, one to whom we looked for clear direction in perplexity, one who never failed us when we needed him."

Supreme court guards were the pallbearers, and members of the court the honorary pallbearers.

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP)—I was out hanging up the clothes for mother and there was one of the streamliners stopped out here. It's unusual for it to stop here unless it has a hot box or something, so I stood there and I was watching the men go around and look at the wheels.

They were monkeying around and about that time there was another train coming and I happened to look up that way and suddenly there was a big crash and everything flew up in the air.

I ran over there right away after the smoke and dust had disappeared, because you couldn't even get near before that. It was too cloudy with dust and paper and all that flying up from the train.

I and a few other neighbor girls went over and we stood there and didn't touch anything because we thought we'd better not.

Burke Denies U. S. Steel Is Blocking Bituminous Negotiations

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—Edward R. Burke, head of the Southern Coal Producers' Association, asserted tonight that John L. Lewis intended to withhold his specific wage demands until the country was "in peril."

Burke issued a statement in which he foresaw no quick end to the twenty-five-day-old bituminous coal strike. Negotiations for a new contract have been broken off since Lewis walked out on April 10. He has not made his wage demands specific, concentrating on a demand for a health and welfare fund.

Bur former Nebraska senator, attack ., at a news conference, a statement made by the UMW president at Hazleton, Pa., conference of anthracite miners, to the effect that United States Steel Corporation was blocking the bituminous negotiations.

Burke described Lewis's charge as "plain unadulterated buncombe." He also issued a formal statement praising the efforts of United States Steel's representative in the negotiations as being "constructive and intelligent." Burke said his formal statement represented the unanimous views of the spokesmen for the commercial operators.

The steel company's negotiator is Harry M. Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company, Pittsburgh.

Burke told reporters that it was "time" the public became aroused over the economy paralysis which could result from a prolonged strike.

He said that the Senate could remove "two obstacles" toward making a contract by: (1) Defining employes under the Wagner Labor Relations act "as Congress clearly intended it" to exclude supervisory workers from the act; (2) enact a general bill—not limited to James C. Petrillo or to Lewis—making it illegal to demand an excess tax upon the product of a union's employer.

Two of Lewis's nine contract proposals were for "adjustment of the controversy" over unionization of supervisory workers and creation of the health and welfare fund financed by a tonnage levy.

The southern association president said that Lewis appeared to be seeking a wage increase "sufficiently higher than Philip Murray or other labor leaders were able to get to show that he is the greatest in the country."

U. S. Brushes Off Agency Directive On Food for Japs

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The United States tonight brushed off a Far Eastern Commission directive on food shipments to Japan with the contention that it already was following the policy laid down by that body.

Here was the day's sequence of unusual events:

1. The commission — eleven-nation Allied policy-making agency for Japan—adopted with United States concurrence a policy statement asking this country to reconsider immediately its commitment to send half a million tons of food to Japan by July 1.

2. In the same statement, the commission told the United States not to give the Japanese any food priority over hard-pressed peoples of Allied nations or liberated areas, except where food imports were "essential immediately for the safety of the occupation forces."

3. Several hours later, Assistant Secretary of State John H. Hilldring, speaking for the government, declared in effect that the United States had followed the "no priority" policy for Japan all along. He ignored completely the commission's request for a review of current food shipments.

4. An hour later, after reporters

TRAIN WAS TRAVELING OVER 60 MILES AN HOUR

Locomotive Telescopes Three Quarters Length of Rear Coach

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP)—The Burlington railroad's Exposition Flyer, streaking west from Chicago at a better than sixty-mile-an-hour clip, crashed into the rear of the line's advance Flyer today, killing at least forty-two and perhaps more than fifty persons—and injuring about 125.

Eight hours after the collision, worst in the railroad's history, rescue workers had failed to cut their way completely through the wreckage in a search for bodies.

The Diesel locomotive, its front wheels sheared off by the impact, telescoped three quarters the length of the rear of the Advance Flyer and train crewmen expressed the belief as many as fifteen bodies might be wedged under the engine.

The Red Cross, which hurriedly set up disaster relief headquarters at the scene of the wreck, estimated the dead would run over fifty and that 125 were injured. The agency said it had accounted for forty-eight bodies.

42 Known Dead

Forty known dead were accounted for in Naperville mortuary establishments and in hospitals. At least seventy-eight injured were taken to hospitals in Aurora.

Rescue workers late tonight recovered the bodies of one soldier and one civilian from wreckage in next to the end coach of the Advance Flyer.

The collision was the second fatal accident in less than three weeks involving the Exposition Flyer, which runs between Chicago and San Francisco. Two persons were killed and seventy-seven injured April 5 when the train jumped the tracks at Pilot, Nev., after being switched onto a siding.

The collision today occurred when the Advance Flyer, bound for Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., made an unscheduled stop at this Chicago suburb, apparently when trouble developed in the undercarriage of the train.

The Diesel-powered Exposition Flyer, bound for San Francisco, rammed into the rear of the Advance Flyer one block from the Naperville station, in view of scores of persons.

Coach Is Rent Asunder

The impact threw the bodies of some victims from the windows of passenger car. The sides of the metal coach were rent asunder and turned back like cardboard, witnesses said.

Relief workers quickly removed the bodies of dead and injured from the car, piling them along the right of way between the coach and a fence paralleling the line. All

Tel Aviv Battle Leaves Six Dead And 13 Wounded

Armed Group Attacks Camp of British Royal Engineers

JERUSALEM, April 25 (AP) — Six British soldiers and police were killed and thirteen Britons and Jews were wounded tonight, private sources said, when an armed group attacked a camp of British Royal Engineers and a car parking area in the southern part of Tel Aviv. No official report was issued immediately.

The attacking group was believed to be composed of Jews, the informants said. However, it was not immediately clear whether the wounded Jews, including one woman, had participated in the fighting or were passersby.

Military and police detachments rushed to the scene. Armored cars also were sent toward Tel Aviv. These military vehicles carried huge searchlights which were thrown on suddenly at spots where it was suspected the attackers might be hiding.

The six dead were reported to include five British airborne division soldiers and one British constable. The wounded included two British soldiers, nine Jewish men and a Jewish woman and a Jewish police corporal who was hit by a stray bullet.

Earlier advices had said the attacks were made on two police stations in Tel Aviv. Apparently, however, only the military camp and the parking area were attacked.

The attack on the engineers' camp and also on a car parking area began late tonight when two heavy explosions, presumably caused by mines, were heard throughout Tel Aviv, a Jewish coastal city thirty miles northwest of Jerusalem. Machine gun fire was heard for hours.

Informants said at least one girl was observed among the attackers. The attacking group was reported to have fled in the direction of a nearby quarter for Oriental Jews. This quarter was quickly surrounded by police and military detachments which arrived on the scene.

WARRANT CHARGING MANSLAUGHTER IS ISSUED FOR ENGINEER

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP) — State's Attorney Lee Daniels announced tonight that a warrant charging manslaughter had been issued for W. W. Blaine, Galesburg, Ill., engineer of the Burlington railroad's Exposition Flyer, which plowed into the rear of the line's Advance Flyer here this afternoon.

Daniels told reporters it was simply a measure to make sure that Blaine would be available for an inquest into deaths resulting from the wreck.

Chungking Says Communists Have Occupied Harbin

Government Suffers Second Major Manchurian Defeat in Week

By HAROLD K. MILKS

CHUNGKING, April 25 (AP)—The Chinese government acknowledged today its second major defeat in Manchuria within a week, conceding that Communists were seizing unopposed the northern metropolis of Harbin.

Minister of Information K. C. Wu said Harbin, city of 520,000, was given up as lost to the Communists "who already are in the city." The last Russian soldier was due to leave by nightfall.

A Communist spokesman declared he believed Communist troops occupying Harbin and Changchun would resist all outside pressure to "surrender these cities to the central government."

Changchun, Manchuria's capital, fell to overwhelming Communist forces after a savage, four-day battle ending last Thursday.

"The Kuomintang chose to fight," said the Communist, "instead of accepting a neutral proposal that they cease fighting and occupy the Mukden-Harbin rail line and the cities thereon.

"Now that the Communists have beaten them into Harbin and Changchun after fighting it will be most difficult to turn those cities over to the Kuomintang (government party.")

A dispatch from Nanking quoted Lt. Gen. Chao Chia-Hsiang, government chief of staff in Manchuria, as saying there a few days ago he would tell Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that his generals were losing their stomach for the Manchurian fighting and wanted a settlement.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Peiping said Gen. Chao stopped there en route back to Manchuria from Chungking and reported the generalissimo was "very concerned.")

"Salome" Dance Is Denied Broadway; Law Prevents It

By JEAN SMALL

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—In a flood of disappointed tears, the 16-year-old schoolgirl whose "Salome" dance surprised Van Dyke, Mich., saw her dreams of a Broadway success go glimering tonight.

One hour before shapely Beverly Ann Cort was to dance on Broadway—in Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe—police said she couldn't perform.

Liquor laws forbid any person under 18 to perform as an entertainer in any place where liquor is sold.

Beverly wept when she heard the news, and then sat disconsolately at a ringside table to watch the floor show she wasn't in.

"All I want to do is just dance—once," she said.

As the loudspeaker announced to the capacity crowd that Beverly could not appear, she got up and took a bow, blushing and smiling. She was introduced as "Beverly (Salome) Cort."

A spokesman for Billy Rose said the girl would receive her $200 a week for the two weeks that she had been scheduled to perform, and added that an attempt would be made to arrange for her to appear at a Broadwy theater.

"We can't bear to disappoint the kid," he said.

Beverly had planned to do the same dance in the same costume as the one she wore back home in Van Dyke. It consists of a black, strapless bra and a black skirt down to the knee, slit up the sides.

When she first did the dance, a teacher criticized her and some students went on strike until they were assured she would not be punished.

She was asked to describe the dance Broadway may never see.

"I guess you'd call it sinuous and passionate," she said, and took a sip of milk.

Government Workers Might Be Organized Into CIO, Murray Says

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 25 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray said today that "perhaps millions" of government workers might be organized into the CIO.

He spoke before the convention of a new union which decided to call itself the United Public Workers of America (CIO).

The new group is a merger of two CIO unions, the United Federal Workers of America and the State, County and Municipal Workers of America. They claim a total membership of about 75,000.

Actress Wins Divorce

Nazi Bomb, 350 Yards From Buckingham Palace, Is Still Ticking

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—"Annie," the half-ton delayed action German bomb which came to life after five years of inactivity, was still ticking tonight at the bottom of its thirty-foot shaft 350 yards from Buckingham palace.

Water seeping into the shaft made detection apparatus less sensitive and caused a false report today that the bomb had been neutralized.

The bomb disposal squad said it would be detonated at 7 p. m., tomorrow if it does not go off in the meantime.

All residents in the bomb area were instructed to open their windows next to the park to lessen the damage if "Annie" explodes.

The bomb is one of three dropped in St. James park in 1941. The other two were removed last February.

Reds' Reply to Note on Manchuria Is Reported To Be Unsatisfactory

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The State department received from Moscow today a statement of Russian policy on Manchurian industry which American officials regard as unsatisfactory, it was reported on excellent authority tonight.

The note came in response to an American message to the Russian foreign ministry early last month which asked the Russians what was going on in Manchuria, advised them what the Chinese said about it and in effect protested the Russian actions and policies.

Today's reply was regarded by some authorities here as virtually a rejection of the American protest over the richest and most highly-developed area in Asia. Others regarded the note initially as being "unsatisfactory" but studied it carefully for possible openings which could lead to a satisfactory solution of the Manchurian problem.

The United States, in effect, had accused Russia of removing all sorts of industrial equipment from Manchuria during the period of Red army occupation.

The Russians were also accused of having tried to work out exclusive ownership arrangements with China covering vital mines, power plants, iron and steel industries and others.

In a note of early March, China in effect confirmed both the Amer-

President Leads Nation in Final Tribute to Chief Justice Stone

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—In the presence of a solemn president, brief, simple funeral services were held today for Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone.

Within vaulted Washington cathedral, at the crest of the capital's highest hill, many of the great of government and hundreds of humble people offered final honor to the eminent jurist who died Monday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Behind him sat Charles Evans Hughes, the man Stone succeeded as chief justice in 1940. Farther back were current members of the court, members of Congress and the cabinet, and men in uniform.

To one side were representatives of the diplomatic corps. Just across the aisle from Mr. Truman were the justice's heavily-veiled widow and two sons, Dr. Marshall H. Stone, Cambridge, Mass., and Col. Lauson Stone, New York.

In accordance with Justice Stone's wishes, the services were short, dignified and devoid of eulogies. There were familiar hymns—"O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and "The Strife Is O'er, the Battle Done."

There was only one personal touch, one mention of Justice Stone's name. An old friend, the Rev. Fleming James, dean of the theological seminary at the University of the South, Suwanee, Tenn. inserted this tribute into a prayer:

"Not as a great public officer do we remember him now, but as a friend; understanding, companionable, kind, true, humble, simple of heart, courageous, one to whom we looked for clear direction in perplexity, one who never failed us when we needed him."

Supreme court guards were the pallbearers, and members of the court the honorary pallbearers.

Roxas Maintains Lead In Filipino Election

MANILA, April 25 (AP)—Manuel Roxas maintained a substantial lead in the Philippines presidential race tonight, although President Sergio Osmena continued to gain in scattered returns. Nearly three-quarters of the votes were still to be counted from Tuesday's balloting.

Unofficial returns from 3,964 out of 14,238 precincts gave Roxas 376,247, Osmena 302,606.

Young Woman Gives Eyewitness Account of Streamliner's Crash

The following is an eye witness account of today's Burlington railroad passenger train wreck, as dictated by a Naperville resident.

By ROSE HODEL

(Written for the Associated Press)

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP)—I was out hanging up the clothes for mother and there was one of the streamliners stopped out here. It's unusual for it to stop here unless it has a hot box or something, so I stood there and I was watching the men go around and look at the wheels.

They were monkeying around and about that time there was another train coming and I happened to look up that way and suddenly there was a big crash and everything flew up in the air.

I ran over there right away after the smoke and dust had disappeared, because you couldn't even get near before that. It was too cloudy with dust and paper and all that flying up from the train.

I and a few other neighbor girls went over and we stood there and didn't touch anything because we thought we'd better not.

After the Naperville Fire Department got there we helped people who could walk to homes in the neighborhood. We took them to the Lack of Energy, Fatigue Are Early Anema Symptoms

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Blood is the very stuff of life itself. Though not commonly thought of as an organ, it is as essential as heart or lungs. Indeed, both of the latter exist only as servants to the blood, the one acting merely as a pumping station to keep its life-giving flow full and constant; the other as a commissary to supply it with the oxygen which it carries endlessly to every one of the body's air-greedy tissues.

Thus, it is easy to see the necessity of discovering early anything which lowers the quality of the blood, for anything which does, affects the whole body adversely.

Lack of Red Coloring

Anemia, or lack of red coloring matter in the blood, can readily be discovered by an examination of the blood itself but most people will not think to have such a test made unless they have first suffered some discomfort. Since the blood is such an important and vital fluid, it is wise to know what the early symptoms of anemia are, so that an examination may be made and the condition corrected at once.

The most common and earliest symptoms of which an anemic patient complains are tiredness and lack of energy, some shortness of breath, rapid and noticeable beating of the heart after physical exertion, and occasional dizziness. There is rarely any actual pain.

Mouth Soreness

In certain types of anemia, recurrent attacks of soreness of the mouth and tongue are present. Patients frequently think that these symptoms are due to smoking. Other symptoms which may occur are the formation of excessive gas in the bowel, sickness to the stomach, vomiting and loss of appetite, and constipation.

These symptoms develop particularly in the type of anemia in which there is not only a lessening of the coloring in the blood, but also a lack of acid in the stomach.

In most types of anemia, loss of weight does not occur, but it may happen in pernicious anemia, a condition due to the lack of a certain factor or substance found in liver and extracts of stomach tissue. In women, disturbances of the regular periods may occur with anemia.

Skin Changes

As a rule, in the patient with anemia certain changes occur in the appearance of the skin, the type depending on the kind of anemia present. Thus, the general appearance of the skin may be a guide in the diagnosis. However, pallor or paleness of the skin does not necessarily mean anemia.

On the other hand, the severe anemia may be told by the presence of a blueish tinge to the skin called cyanosis due to a lack of oxygen in the tissues, or by jaundice, which is a greenish-yellow discoloration of the skin. In pericious anemia there may be a pale lemon-yellow color of the skin.

It may be easier to tell whether or not anemia is present by examining the lining membrane of the mouth, lips, and eyes, rather than the appearance of the skin.

Most cases of anemia will respond promptly to treatment, if it is given early. Keep in mind the symptoms of anemia so that when they occur, a blood examination can be made at once.

DON'T BLAME MAMA

Psychology has done a great deal for the human race. But it has also provided a lot of whiners and slackers with some elegant alibis.

For example, there's the theory that we act this way at 35 because Mama or Papa done us dirt at 5.

Maybe Mama was one of those dominant, possessive Amazons who devour their little ones. Or she may have been lazy, selfish, shiftless or plain dumb. Whatever the cause, little Mamie is henceforth and forever a blighted being—too sensitive to cope with this crude cruel world.

Or perhaps Papa was a roaring hellion who delighted in thwarting and threatening and generally scaring the pants off his little son. That's why poor, dear Willy at 40 simply can't hold a job and has to drown his inhibitions at the nearest hootch haven.

Or at least that's Mamie's and Willy's story and they're going to stick to it. And the rest of us let them, or even encourage them, because we're partial to alibis ourselves.

As a matter of fact no competent psychologist or psychiatrist ever claims that such early mistreatment incapacitated anyone for normal existence. Unhappy childhood may frighten us—make us resentful—give us unhealthy notions—drive us in upon ourselves. But we can, and millions do, overcome these handicaps.

For the plain fact is that such handicaps are neither unusual nor abnormal. No one has an entirely agreeable or secure youth even with the kindest and wisest parents. Life itself is plenty tough. None of us are perfectly understood as children nor protected nor loved as much as we'd like. There are always frightening things to beset us, unkind people to hurt us, haunting problems beyond our youthful comprehension.

Whoever said that youth was life's most blessed period was a champion liar for even under the best conditions the average child is as heckled as a young cottontail. But what of it? That is the normal process of growth. Without this toughening, how would we be able to face mature reality?

ACTUALLY THE NEGLIGENT OR ABUSIVE MOTHER OR FATHER IS OFTEN FAR BETTER FOR A YOUNGSTER THAN THE OVER INDULGENT OR DOMINEERING PARENT WHO CONTROLS EVERY WHIM, DICTATES EVERY DECISION AND SAFEGUARDS EVERY STEP.

As for these croaking lamenters who blame all adult weakness or cussedness on the old folks, their motive is plain. They do it because it's far easier to blame someone else than it is to pitch in and do a job on themselves. Also it flatters their egotism to think they are special tragedies.

Price Controls Should Be Repaired, Not Wrecked

AS this newspaper has repeatedly declared, the Office of Price Administration controls should not be wrecked, but repaired. And a lot of repairing is necessary if its purposes are to be achieved.

Its main purposje, of course, is to hold inflation in check. It cannot stop it entirely—too much of it we already have and much of it is directly due to blundering administration of the OPA. But we are headed into greater inflation and the time is not ripe yet for the removal of all controls, which many honestly believe would be the best thing in order to give the free competitive system a chance to work.

First we must have production, and full production based upon more realistic statistics than that which have been exploited through OPA propaganda. With regard to that, it may be observed that the propaganda with which the OPA bureaucrats are now flooding the country is serving to nullify such protests are are being wired and mailed into Washington against any revision of the OPA rules and regulations. Too much of that is organization and government inspired and congressmen are not so dumb as to fall for it.

But government rulings and regulations under OPA have held production in check instead of furthering it, chiefly because the government has sought the impossible goal of maintaining price ceilings while lifting them on wages. Another chief determent has been the system of gauging profit margins on an unfair standard based upon conditions obtaining before costs were advanced and permitting manufacturers not affected by that standard to obtain higher prices. The result here has been to drive manufacturers from the production of needed low-cost materials into the production of other more expensive lines, thus defeating the inflation objective.

Price controls must be lifted when supply comes up to production or close to it. But supplies cannot be brought to that point unless production is encouraged and stimulated.

The controls should be lifted as soon as expedient; but they should be lifted in an orderly, systematic, progressive manner. They should be retained longest upon essential commodities that materially and directly affect the cost of living. But the lifting should be coincident with a program that will get production going. And it must be kept in mind that it is just that much wasted effort to try to compel producers to produce goods at a loss.

The key to the situation is production. Government controls cannot at best stop inflation. They can only discourage it. The thing to do now is to discourage as much af it as possible so that it doesn't become disastrous. It is silly to asume, as OPA spokesmen are assuming, that inflation can be averted by continuing OPA's blanket powers to regulate anything and everything.

What must be done is to produce, and produce more and more. All efforts must be sensibly directed to that desideratum.

Supplies Necessary For a Free Press

NEWS FREEDOM, which is being strenuously advocated as a fundamental in the promotion and preservation of world peace, is closely aligned with the problem of raw material production.

This fact has been brought out by W. G. Chandler, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who is also president of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Addressing the association's sixtieth annual meeting in New York, Chandler declared, rightly, that freedom of the press could be abridged through control of vital materials in newspaper production, as it has unfortunately been in some countries. Even the free press of Great Britain was and still is arbitrarily limited to a fraction of the space needed to inform a literate democracy, he noted. Most newspapers in England are limited to eight pages. "Wherever a government controls the raw materials of expression, that is, the paper on which thoughts are recorded," he said, "there can be no means of free expression."

The press of the United States and Canada has been more fortunate in obtaining supplies than that of other countries. Yet in these countries the limitation of supplies, both through government controls and through economic conditions, have operated to restrict the press to a deplorable extent.

It is primarily the job of the Fourth Estate, as Chandler said, to seek ways and means for assuring publishers the facilities for printing that which needs to be read. But these efforts need encouragement and assistance here as well as elsewhere. Too many newspapers are now prevented from publishing complete reports of the news as they wish.

As Chandler declared, "newspapers remain the first medium of public information," and "despite the continuing and increasing problems of publication, the burdens of labor and paper costs, newspapers are capable of still greater service." They are, indeed, and they should be given the opportunity of providing it.

Another Whirl Is Due In the Upward Spiral

PINCHED between higher operating costs and declining revenues, American railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for a general twenty-five per cent advance in freight rates, effective May 15. They also urge continuation of the ten per cent increase in passenger fares they enjoyed during the war.

A rise in freight rates, says the petition filed with the commission, is "imperative" as the result of "an extraordnary combination" of war and postwar conditions. Labor costs have soared, prices of materials and supplies are up, and traffic volume is falling and revenue is dropping even faster because the proportion of higher rated goods is dwindling.

Figures resented in the petition show that the most important factor in the equation is wages. The sixteen-cents-and-hour increase recently granted will add $619,000,000 to the 1946 wage bill as compared to 1945. Added to boosts allowed during the war, the 1946 wage outlay will be $1,355,000,000 more than in 1939. Materials and supplies will cost $167,000,000 more in 1946 than in 1945 and about $500,000,000 more this year than in the last year before the war.

As for 1946 revenue, the petition estimates that it will fall 23.5 per cent below 1945 on the basis of existing rates. This smaller income will not be sufficient, it is contended, to meet the greater drain and at the same time take care of deferred maintenance charges and provide new and much-needed equipment.

The case looks strong and it appears that the ICC will have no alternative except to grant higher rates. The result will be to add something more to the cost of everything the consumer buys. Thus the inflationary spiral will mount higher, the buying power of the dollar will fall still further, there will be more demands for wage boosts, and so on and on and on unless someway the process is checked.

These Needed Stocks Should Be Released

IT IS A GOOD JOINT which is made by Howard Bruce, wartime director of army materiel, in his appeal to President Truman to speed up the sale of surplus commodities. These goods are needed now by private citizens, including thousands of former servicemen who want to go into business for themselves — and, in addition to that, the money to buy them is at hand.

By selling them immediately the government can take millions of floating dollars out of circulation and thus aid in the war on inflation.

Mr. Bruce's argument for a vigorous disposal policy is likewise based on the fact that the country can thus relieve current shortages, further the expansion of civilian production and employment, and increase federal revenue. This is all sound logic and the president will do well to insist that the departments concerned act upon it.

Indicating the delays which have attended the disposal program to date is the statement by Mr. Bruce that $32,000,000,000 worth of goods is still held by the government and that only $2,000,000,000 worth has been turned into cash. Not all of the remaining stocks are marketable—approximately one-third is useful only as junk—but there is no good reason for letting them lie any longer in storehouses in this country and abroad. Most certainly it is time for a grand housecleaning.

Babson Advocates World Language To Insure Peace

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 25.—The immediate lesson from the recent Russian negotiations is that we must keep America strong,—physically, intellectually and especially spiritually. That is the only way to "win the peace"

A price must be paid for everything we accept. In the case of the most worthwhile things, this price includes something much more than money or what can be purchased with money. It includes sacrifice of time, energy, thought and prejudices. This will require radical changes in our schools and colleges. There is no short-cut to world peace.

Of course, the first thing which our educators should do to insure world peace would be to develop a universal language, accompanied by the teaching of a universal history. There is no more reason why all nations cannot see the same language and history books as they now use the same arithmetics. Furthermore, the United Nations could teach all their people a universal language and a universal history in one generation.

Music a Universal Language

As a practical move in this direction, every nation should give more attention to music. All nations now use the same musical scores. A musician of any nation can read and play the music of any other nation even though he cannot speak a word of the language. Thus, music offers a very practical and available stepping stone to the much-needed universal language and history.

But I want to emphasize something about music of even greater importance. Music is more than a universal written language; it is a universal spoken language. People who can neither read words nor music can talk together through music! In fact, the words of the great hymns are insignificant compared with the music. The great symphonies have no words at all.

Music as an Influence

Music can convey thoughts without words and may do it much better than words. Music can develop confidence or fear, hope or discouragement, love or hate. Music may not take the place of armaments, but it certainly should be used by governments to supplant armaments. Music has potential power far exceeding that of atomic bombs. Our State department could well afford to spend $10,000,000 a year on music.

I often urge upon parents the importance of training children to become experts in some one thing. The chosen line is not important provided the boy or girl can pass a competitive examination thereon, —whether it is mechanics, typewriting, accounting or music. Music is an excellent insurance for any young person. The ability to sing or play will make friends and—in an emergency—make a living.

Federation a Help

Parents should join the Music Club of their community and support community music in all its phases. This will show your children that you are interested in music and will enable you to help them become interested. This will give them both pleasure and economic insurance; Jalso a part in a practical world peace program.

Five thousand music clubs are now joined in the National Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, of Portland, Me., is president. This federation is encouraging music in all homes and communities; it is even entering the international field. It has recommended that all American musical organizations unite in a great International Music Congress to bring together representatives from many countries. There they will discuss the future of music, render their best performances and in one more way further the uniting of the peoples of the earth in "one world" in complete harmony.

A Personal Confession

My entire life has been given to the study of figures—or what the professors call "statistics". These figures, I have laboriously collected, compiled and used in an endeavor to measure and forecast business, investment and social trends. At one time I almost worshipped figures. But now—at the age of 70—I have concluded that the world is not ruled by figures—but rather by feelings. This is another reason for my interest in music.

Southern Anti-Hannegan Rebellion Gets No Truman Support, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 25 — It didn't get in the papers, but President Truman sat down the other day with Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson and Democratic National Committee Vice-Chairman Dick Nacy to discuss the southern rebellion against Bob Hannegan.

Nacy told Truman that the Southerners were up in arms over the last erroneous letter sent out of National Committee Headquarters and signed Bob Hannegan, urging Democratic leaders to pick good candidates this time.

The letter was interpreted by southerners as indicating a purge of all Democrats; so Nacy told Truman that Dixie Democrats now wanted a new letter from Hannegan indosing all Democratic members of Congress for re-election.

Truman replied that he would agree to no such thing. He said that if the Democratic National Committee endorsed all Democratic members of Congress, it would put Democrats who entered the primaries at a disadvantage. The president was thinking particularly of certain districts where Democrats may be booted out in the primaries by other Democrats who very much agree with the Truman program.

Finally the president said:

"There will be no new letter. The national committee has admitted its error. I am fully satisfied that Bob Hannegan knows how to run his own affairs. I am going to continue to let him run them, too."

And that was that.

Slitting Byrnes's Throat

No man in the U. S. government needs more support today than Jimmy Byrnes, now struggling to straighten out the tangled skeins of peace. Yet, while he is in Paris, certain die-hards on Capitol Hill have been busy as bird dogs cutting his appropriations throat.

One of Byrnes's strongest peace weapons is the goodwill of the Russian people. If they are friendly to the U. S., his hand is strengthened 100 per cent with their bosses in the Kremlin. Proof of this is the way the government-controlled Moscow radio has been blasting away at the Russian people about decadent U. S. capitalism, millions of U. S. unemployed, and alleged U. S. efforts to bulldoze Russia.

One small start toward counteracting this is an illustrated magazine "Amerika," published by the State department and circulated in Russia to the tune of 10,000 copies. This is all the Kremlin will let inside Russia, though negotiations are now underway to increase the circulation to 50,000.

In the middle of these negotiations, however, niggardly Representative Louis Rabaut, Michigan Democrat, neatly ran his knife through the State department's appropriation for "Amerika." Apparently disapproving of the idea of penetrating the Soviet "iron curtain," he and a majority of his Appropriations subcommittee decided in effect to tell Byrnes what he should or should not do in Russia.

Meanwhile, here is a confidential report from an official in the American embassy in Moscow on the job "Amerika" already has done on the Russian people:

Slitting Soviet Curtain

"In the past month a hospital director requested fifty copies of each issue for patients, saying it was excellent reading matter; a radio repair man said he would give priority on radio repair work to any customer who got him a copy; in a theater the other night I sat in front of two women who were reading the third issue of "Amerika." They didn't go out between the acts.

"Soon a large group gathered around them. The women read the headlines aloud. Everyone commented on the interest of the articles, the quality of the paper and color work. Several weeks ago, before the fourth issue arrived, a young office worker from a certain commissariat made her fourth visit to the embassy in a single month, pleading for a copy. The girl said that a doctor refused to treat her unless she could produce a new copy of 'Amerika.'

"I was told today that we got a protesting letter from the far-off Tshuvaskay Republic, protesting that, although they had ordered twenty-two subscriptions, only twenty-one arrived in the last mail. Copies of 'Amerika' have been sent to Tadzhikistan, 5,000 miles from Moscow.

"Another friend took copies to relatives in Kiev, and they have set up regular morning and afternoon gatherings for the neighbors to come in and read the magazine. A woman told me the only way she could get a dentist's appointment was to lend him a new or old copy of 'Amerika.'

"One theater director told an actress I know that getting a copy of 'Amerika' is as difficult as getting a ticket to the performance, 'Days of the Tarbius,' now the most popular play in Moscow. A famous actor at the Makhat theater was seen between acts backstage trying to repair a damaged copy of the magazine with glue. Still another friend asked a waiter whether he preferred cigarettes or a copy of 'Amerika' as a tip. The waiter took the magazine. One Russian government worker on his way home with ten copies stopped in a store, was almost mobbed, and left with no copies.

"This represents only what I personally know about the magazine. Each copy is seen by from fifteen to fifty people. Some people return copies in shreds and tatters to the embassy to show how popular it is They have been read until the print is almost worn off the paper."

Capital Chaff

Sidney Hillman held a very important conference with President Truman last week. This was publicized. Not publicized, however, was a secret meeting with Phil Murray and Harold Ickes. Behind the powwows is an all-out campaign to elect liberal Roosevelt-Truman congressman to Congress next November ... The Swiss government has now agreed with Great Britain and the United States to giving the Allies fifty per cent of all German assets in Switzerland; also that $100,000,000 of the $400,000,000 of Nazi gold in Switzerland will be returned to the Allies. This very lame compromise would have been less lame if the British hadn't been softies. They figured they could borrow from us what they didn't get from the Swiss ...Increasing evidence that Jugoslav leader Mihailovich was framed by British Intelligence is piling up in Washington. It shows he was never in cahoots with the Nazis. Next week a large delegation of Americans will call at the State department demanding that Mihailovich be tried by international tribunal ...Senator Bridges, of New Hampshire, plus colleagues, is introducing a bill providing for an air force entirely separate from the army and navy. Congressmen Don't Like British Loan But Fear Outlook

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 25—There is no doubt that a lot of members of Congress do not like the British loan idea but there is also every reason for believing that most senators and representatives fear the consequences of a rejection of the proposal.

To an extent hardly realized either inside or outside of Congress, the future of world peace depends upon economic stability in Europe. The tides of communism and radicalism rise in the world when nations are impoverished and governments are unable to provide the revenues to sustain either domestic or foreign commerce and to give employment.

Some of the same men who held the isolationist theory before Pearl Harbor are fighting the British loan. Some of the others who have not been isolationists are opposing the loan, because they think it is politically more popular not to lend money to foreign governments. Still others think the same objectives can be achieved either by a partial gift or some other device.

Questions Complicated

But the loan agreement between Britain and the United States has been consumated after many weeks of negotiation. The questions involved are complicated. The American negotiators feel that to free the parts of the world now under British economic control for the entry of American goods is a worthwhile concession and that the cause of increased consumption for American products and increased markets will be enhanced if fewer, instead of more, restrictions are imposed on the trade of the world.

It's an old story—the argument in favor of self-sufficiency and self-containment and high tariff walls as against exporting surpluses and promoting more trade and exchanges of goods. But it has little place in the present controversy. What the United States faces is a condition and not a theory.

Thus Britain has already shown signs of turning to the "left." Her Labor party government is not as extreme as many Americans think it to be but if Britain is faced with economic chaos, she may get a government that will make the present labor ministry seem conservative in comparison.

Lesson from Germany

If Britain fails to exercise a stabilizing influence on the economic front in Europe, the fate of Belgium and France and ultimately Spain must also hang in the balance. The soil for the cultivation of communistic doctrine will be better if the British economic system is in trouble than if it is nursed to health by a loan from the outside.

Somewhat the same situation arose in Central Europe after the last war. Germany tried liberalism and a republican form of government. She went through a painful inflation. Her economic chaos gave the militarists and the Nazis their chance and the German people were inflamed by Nazi propaganda which never would have had a chance to be effective if the German republic had had more outside help than it received.

Today an analogous situation arises with reference to the future not only of Britain but of Western Europe and the countries with which Britain has financial and economic relationships. The United States government has taken its position on the side of financial aid in a crisis. It could as readily have reverted to prewar ideas about lending and looked at the matter as a business proposition alone. Too many Americans back in 1932 looked at relief and loans to the hardship cases in American business and industry as paternalism. As a consequence, unemployment rose to unpredicted heights and the New Deal was swept into power. Then the nation spent billions on relief projects and loans and taxes rose.

Great Britain is an ally and not a former enemy. Her resistance to the Nazis gave the United States eventually a base from which our successful attack was launched. There can be no denying that a strong Britain in an economic sense means an ally for the United States in any future trouble in the world. The strength of the United Nations is related to the economic and financial stability of the British empire as well as the United States.

America's aid to Britain is approved by more than a majority of both houses but political considerations and fear of minority groups is causing some to hesitate. The debate is a healthy thing, for it puts everybody on record and there is an opportunity for the American people to judge who in Congress are reverting to isolationism and who are beginning to understand that dollars loaned now may mean the saving of tens of thousands of American lives tomorrow.

Price Controls Should Be Repaired, Not Wrecked

AS this newspaper has repeatedly declared, the Office of Price Administration controls should not be wrecked, but repaired. And a lot of repairing is necessary if its purposes are to be achieved.

Its main purposje, of course, is to hold inflation in check. It cannot stop it entirely—too much of it we already have and much of it is directly due to blundering administration of the OPA. But we are headed into greater inflation and the time is not ripe yet for the removal of all controls, which many honestly believe would be the best thing in order to give the free competitive system a chance to work.

First we must have production, and full production based upon more realistic statistics than that which have been exploited through OPA propaganda. With regard to that, it may be observed that the propaganda with which the OPA bureaucrats are now flooding the country is serving to nullify such protests are are being wired and mailed into Washington against any revision of the OPA rules and regulations. Too much of that is organization and government inspired and congressmen are not so dumb as to fall for it.

But government rulings and regulations under OPA have held production in check instead of furthering it, chiefly because the government has sought the impossible goal of maintaining price ceilings while lifting them on wages. Another chief determent has been the system of gauging profit margins on an unfair standard based upon conditions obtaining before costs were advanced and permitting manufacturers not affected by that standard to obtain higher prices. The result here has been to drive manufacturers from the production of needed lowcost materials into the production of other more expensive lines, thus defeating the inflation objective.

Price controls must be lifted when supply comes up to production or close to it. But supplies cannot be brought to that point unless production is encouraged and stimulated.

The controls should be lifted as soon as expedient; but they should be lifted in an orderly, systematic, progressive manner. They should be retained longest upon essential commodities that materially and directly affect the cost of living. But the lifting should be coincident with a program that will get production going. And it must be kept in mind that it is just that much wasted effort to try to compel producers to produce goods at a loss.

The key to the situation is production. Government controls cannot at best stop inflation. They can only discourage it. The thing to do now is to discourage as much af it as possible so that it doesn't become disastrous. It is silly to asume, as OPA spokesmen are assuming, that inflation can be averted by continuing OPA's blanket powers to regulate anything and everything.

What must be done is to produce, and produce more and more. All efforts must be sensibly directed to that desideratum.

Supplies Necessary For a Free Press

NEWS FREEDOM, which is being strenuously advocated as a fundamental in the promotion and preservation of world peace, is closely aligned with the problem of raw material production.

This fact has been brought out by W. G. Chandler, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who is also president of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Addressing the association's sixtieth annual meeting in New York, Chandler declared, rightly, that freedom of the press could be abridged through control of vital materials in newspaper production, as it has unfortunately been in some countries. Even the free press of Great Britain was and still is arbitrarily limited to a fraction of the space needed to inform a literate democracy, he noted. Most newspapers in England are limited to eight pages. "Wherever a government controls the raw materials of expression, that is, the paper on which thoughts are recorded," he said, "there can be no means of free expression."

The press of the United States and Canada has been more fortunate in obtaining supplies than that of other countries. Yet in these countries the limitation of supplies, both through government controls and through economic conditions, have operated to restrict the press to a deplorable extent.

It is primarily the job of the Fourth Estate, as Chandler said, to seek ways and means for assuring publishers the facilities for printing that which needs to be read. But these efforts need encouragement and assistance here as well as elsewhere. Too many newspapers are now prevented from publishing complete reports of the news as they wish.

As Chandler declared, "newspapers remain the first medium of public information," and "despite the continuing and increasing problems of publication, the burdens of labor and paper costs, newspapers are capable of still greater service." They are, indeed, and they should be given the opportunity of providing it.

Another Whirl Is Due In the Upward Spiral

PINCHED between higher operating costs and declining revenues, American railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for a general twenty-five per cent advance in freight rates, effective May 15. They also urge continuation of the ten per cent increase in passenger fares they enjoyed during the war.

A rise in freight rates, says the petition filed with the commission, is "imperative" as the result of "an extraordinary combination" of war and postwar conditions. Labor costs have soared, prices of materials and supplies are up, and traffic volume is falling and revenue is dropping even faster because the proportion of higher rated goods is dwindling.

Figures resented in the petition show that the most important factor in the equation is wages. The sixteen-cents-and-hour increase recently granted will add $619,000,000 to the 1946 wage bill as compared to 1945. Added to boosts allowed during the war, the 1946 wage outlay will be $1,355,000,000 more than in 1939. Materials and supplies will cost $167,000,000 more in 1946 than in 1945 and about $500,000,000 more this year than in the last year before the war.

As for 1946 revenue, the petition estimates that it will fall 23.5 per cent below 1945 on the basis of existing rates. This smaller income will not be sufficient, it is contended, to meet the greater drain and at the same time take care of deferred maintenance charges and provide new and much-needed equipment.

The case looks strong and it appears that the ICC will have no alternative except to grant higher rates. The result will be to add something more to the cost of everything the consumer buys. Thus the inflationary spiral will mount higher, the buying power of the dollar will fall still further, there will be more demands for wage boosts, and so on and on and on unless someway the process is checked.

These Needed Stocks Should Be Released

IT IS A GOOD JOINT which is made by Howard Bruce, wartime director of army materiel, in his appeal to President Truman to speed up the sale of surplus commoditics. These goods are needed now by private citizens, including thousands of former servicemen who want to go into business for themselves — and, in addition to that, the money to buy them is at hand.

By selling them immediately the government can take millions of floating dollars out of circulation and thus aid in the war on inflation.

Mr. Bruce's argument for a vigorous disposal policy is likewise based on the fact that the country can thus relieve current shortages, further the expansion of civilian production and employment, and increase federal revenue. This is all sound logic and the president will do well to insist that the departments concerned act upon it.

Indicating the delays which have attended the disposal program to date is the statement by Mr. Bruce that $32,000,000,000 worth of goods is still held by the government; and that only $2,000,000,000 worth has been turned into cash. Not all of the remaining stocks are marketable—approximately one-third is useful only as junk—but there is no good reason for letting them lie any longer in storehouses in this country and abroad. Most certainly it is time for a grand housecleaning.

Babson Advocates World Language To Insure Peace

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 25.—The immediate lesson from the recent Russian negotiations is that we must keep America strong,—physically, intellectually and especially spiritually. That is the only way to "win the peace".

A price must be paid for everything we accept. In the case of the most worthwhile things, this price includes something much more than money or what can be purchased with money. It includes sacrifice of time, energy, thought and prejudices. This will require radical changes in our schools and colleges. There is no short-cut to world peace.

Of course, the first thing which our educators should do to insure world peace would be to develop a universal language, accompanied by the teaching of a universal history. There is no more reason why all nations cannot see the same language and history books as they now use the same arithmetics. Furthermore, the United Nations could teach all their people a universal language and a universal history in one generation.

Music a Universal Language

As a practical move in this direction, every nation should give more attention to music. All nations now use the same musical scores. A musician of any nation can read and play the music of any other nation even though he cannot speak a word of the language. Thus, music offers a very practical and available stepping stone to the much-needed universal language and history.

But I want to emphasize something about music of even greater importance. Music is more than a universal written language; it is a universal spoken language. People who can neither read words nor music can talk together through music! In fact, the words of the great hymns are insignificant compared with the music. The great symphonies have no words at all.

Music as an Influence

Music can convey thoughts without words and may do it much better than words. Music can develop confidence or fear, hope or discouragement, love or hate. Music may not take the place of armaments, but it certainly should be used by governments to supplant armaments. Music has potential power far exceeding that of atomic bombs. Our State department could well afford to spend $10,000,000 a year on music.

I often urge upon parents the importance of training children to become experts in some one thing. The chosen line is not important provided the boy or girl can pass a competitive examination thereon, —whether it is mechanics, typewriting, accounting or music. Music is an excellent insurance for any young person. The ability to sing or play will make friends and—in an emergency—make a living.

Federation a Help

Parents should join the Music Club of their community and support community music in all its phases. This will show your children that you are interested in music and will enable you to help them become interested. This will give them both pleasure and economic insurance; Jalso a part in a practical world peace program.

Five thousand music clubs are now joined in the National Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, of Portland, Me., is president. This federation is encouraging music in all homes and communities; it is even entering the international field. It has recommended that all American musical organizations unite in a great International Music Congress to bring together representatives from many countries. There they will discuss the future of music, render their best performances and in one more way further the uniting of the peoples of the earth in "one world" in complete harmony.

A Personal Confession

My entire life has been given to the study of figures—or what the professors call "statistics". These figures, I have laboriously collected, compiled and used in an endeavor to measure and forecast business, investment and social trends. At one time I almost worshipped figures. But now—at the age of 70—I have concluded that the world is not ruled by figures—but rather by feelings. This is another reason for my interest in music.

Southern Anti-Hannegan Rebellion Gets No Truman Support, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 25 — It didn't get in the papers, but President Truman sat down the other day with Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson and Democratic National Committee Vice-Chairman Dick Nacy to discuss the southern rebellion against Bob Hannegan.

Nacy told Truman that the Southerners were up in arms over the last erroneous letter sent out of National Committee Headquarters and signed Bob Hannegan, urging Democratic leaders to pick good candidates this time.

The letter was interpreted by southerners as indicating a purge of all Democrats; so Nacy told Truman that Dixie Democrats now wanted a new letter from Hannegan indosing all Democratic members of Congress for re-election.

Truman replied that he would agree to no such thing. He said that if the Democratic National Committee endorsed all Democratic members of Congress, it would put Democrats who entered the primaries at a disadvantage. The president was thinking particularly of certain districts where Democrats may be booted out in the primaries by other Democrats who very much agree with the Truman program.

Finally the president said:

"There will be no new letter. The national committee has admitted its error. I am fully satisfied that Bob Hannegan knows how to run his own affairs. I am going to continue to let him run them, too."

And that was that.

Slitting Byrnes's Throat

No man in the U. S. government needs more support today than Jimmy Byrnes, now struggling to straighten out the tangled skeins of peace. Yet, while he is in Paris, certain die-hards on Capitol Hill have been busy as bird dogs cutting his appropriations throat.

One of Byrnes's strongest peace weapons is the goodwill of the Russian people. If they are friendly to the U. S., his hand is strengthened 100 per cent with their bosses in the Kremlin. Proof of this is the way the government-controlled Moscow radio has been blasting away at the Russian people about decadent U. S. capitalism, millions of U. S. unemployed, and alleged U. S. efforts to bulldoze Russia.

One small start toward counteracting this is an illustrated magazine "Amerika," published by the State department and circulated in Russia to the tune of 10,000 copies. This is all the Kremlin will let inside Russia, though negotiations are now underway to increase the circulation to 50,000.

In the middle of these negotiations, however, niggardly Representative Louis Rabaut, Michigan Democrat, neatly ran his knife through the State department's appropriation for "Amerika." Apparently disapproving of the idea of penetrating the Soviet "iron curtain," he and a majority of his Appropriations subcommittee decided in effect to tell Byrnes what he should or should not do in Russia.

Meanwhile, here is a confidential report from an official in the American embassy in Moscow on the job "Amerika" already has done on the Russian people:

Slitting Soviet Curtain

"In the past month a hospital director requested fifty copies of each issue for patients, saying it was excellent reading matter; a radio repair man said he would give priority on radio repair work to any customer who got him a copy; in a theater the other night I sat in front of two women who were reading the third issue of "Amerika." They didn't go out between the acts.

"Soon a large group gathered around them. The women read the headlines aloud. Everyone commented on the interest of the articles, the quality of the paper and color work. Several weeks ago, before the fourth issue arrived, a young office worker from a certain commissariat made her fourth visit to the embassy in a single month, pleading for a copy. The girl said that a doctor refused to treat her unless she could produce a new copy of 'Amerika.'

"I was told today that we got a protesting letter from the far-off Tshuvaskay Republic, protesting that, although they had ordered twenty-two subscriptions, only twenty-one arrived in the last mail. Copies of 'Amerika' have been sent to Tadzhikistan, 5,000 miles from Moscow.

"Another friend took copies to relatives in Kiev, and they have set up regular morning and afternoon gatherings for the neighbors to come in and read the magazine. A woman told me the only way she could get a dentist's appointment was to lend him a new or old copy of 'Amerika.'

"One theater director told an actress I know that getting a copy of 'Amerika' is as difficult as getting a ticket to the performance, 'Days of the Tarbius,' now the most popular play in Moscow. A famous actor at the Makhat theater was seen between acts backstage trying to repair a damaged copy of the magazine with glue. Still another friend asked a waiter whether he preferred cigarettes or a copy of 'Amerika' as a tip. The waiter took the magazine. One Russian government worker on his way home with ten copies stopped in a store, was almost mobbed, and left with no copies.

"This represents only what I personally know about the magazine. Each copy is seen by from fifteen to fifty people. Some people return copies in shreds and tatters to the embassy to show how popular it is They have been read until the print is almost worn off the paper."

Witness Defends Schacht at Trial Of Nazi Leaders

Court Is Told All but Ex-Economics Minister Should Be Convicted

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

NUERNBERG, April 25 (AP)—A German defense witness told the international military tribunal today that all except Hjalmar Schacht of the Nazi prisoners on trial here should be convicted and punished because they "are responsible for the misery brought upon Germany and the world."

The witness, Hans Bernd Gisevius, former gestapo officer, also declared that Hermann Goering had devised frameups leading to dismissal of both Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch, army chief of staff, and Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, war minister, in "the decisive last steps before the outbreak of war."

Sought To Unseat Hitler

United States Chief Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson yesterday described Gisevius as "the one representative of democratic forces in Germany to take the stand."

Gisevius denounced nearly all the surviving members of the Nazi hierarchy after testifying that he and other anti-Nazis had sought to unseat Hitler, end the war and restore the rule of justice in Germany. He said Schacht, former minister of economics, was prominent among the anti-Hitler plotters.

Jackson asked Gisevius: "What would your group of conspirators have done with these men in the dock here if you had been able to stage a putsch and seize power?"

Gisevius surveyed the defendants, and replied: "We'd have locked them up—all except Schacht—and it would not have been a long wait between sentencing and punishment. We regard them as responsible for the misery brought upon Germany and the world."

Credit Is Given to Frick

Earlier, Gisevius also had given some credit to Wilhelm Frick, former minister of the interior, for trying to prevent or curtail excesses of Goering, Heinrich Himmler and the gestapo. Gisevius was called as a witness for Frick.

He said he "often regretted we could not catch Hitler, Goering, and Himmler together for a chance to assassinate them together."

He denounced Ernst Kaltenbrunner, security police head, as "even worse than that monster (Reinhard) Heydrich," and said Kaltenbrunner and his gestapo cohorts "discussed at luncheon meetings in gruesome detail their gas chamber and hideous crimes."

Jap War Criminal Meets End on Gallows

TOKYO, Friday, April 26 (AP) — Lt. Kei Yuri was hanged at Sugamo prison today — the first execution of a convicted war criminal in Japan.

Yuri was convicted of ordering the bayonet execution of an American prisoner, Pvt. Noah C. Heard, Sa[illegible]as, Calif., before an assembly of other prisoners at a Kyushu camp, and of permitting the starvation and torture death of Marine Cpl. James G. Pavlokos, Chicago.

Wartime Controls On Meat To Return

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP) — The government went back today to wartime controls on meat—effective next week—in an effort to spread supplies more evenly and curb the black market.

The Department of Agriculture and the OPA reinstated quotas for the slaughter of livestock, dropped last fall.

The day produced these other developments bearing on the world's inadequate food supply:

1. An Agriculture department report showed stocks of wheat in this country on April 1 totaled 338,644,000 bushels, some 40,000,000 bushels less than estimated requirements before the new crop is harvsted.

2. The army offered to help speed up shipment of wheat to emergncy famine areas abroad.

3. The Agriculture department said its corn bonus offer to get grain for famine relief has brought "substantial deliveries" from farmers.

4. The Far Eastern Commission sought to put a strict limit on United States food shipments to Japan.

The Agriculture department-OPA order authorizes slaughterers to kill as many cattle and calves during any month as they did during the same period in 1944, and to slaughter eighty per cent of their 1944 quota of hogs.

The announcement said the purpose is to route livestock supplies to established packing houses.

convention of the United Mine Workers (AFL) today attacked the American press for "vilification of John L. Lewis."

A report by the scale committee on demands for the 75,000 hard coal miners was to have been heard at a morning session today but was incompleted "because of the importance of its demands," said Thomas Kennedy, UMW international secretary-treasurer.

Kennedy said the scale committee spent the morning "whipping its report into shape."

The press criticism resolution was one of four adopted following a report by the resolutions committee.

The committee said newspapers gave "an untrue picture of conditions" in Lewis's fight for health and benefit funds in the twenty-five-day-old strike of 400,000 bituminous workers.

The convention also adopted these other resolutions:

1. Asking operators for pensions for miners with thirty years service. Kennedy reported that twenty-three per cent of all hard coal workers suffered miners' asthma.

2. Calling for the convention to write letters to congressmen to lower benefits under the Social Security act from the age of 65 to 55 for hard coal miners "to create vacancies in order to provide jobs for returning GI employes."

3. Naming Feb. 12, the birthday of Lewis, a holiday in the mines.

A resolution seeking to require appointees to jobs within the union be required to have five years membership was rejected.

The session adjourned until 10 a. m. (EST tomorrow).

The French delegate, Henri Bonnet, sided with Lange.

The session ended with Hodgson shaking his finger at the other delegates in a vain effort to find some agreement on the issue and calling for a vote.

Two major propositions stood out tonight as the delegates sought some solution before meeting tomorrow morning.

One is the proposal of Col. Hodgson as amended today, that a sub-commission of five members of the council be appointed to inquire into the statements made before the council concerning Spain, to call for further statements and documents and evidence and to report back at an indefinite date.

The other is the resolution presented by Dr. Lange which would note the "unanimous condemnation of the Franco regime" expressed in the council debate and appoint a subcommittee of five members "to study the basis for unanimous decision to be reached by the council and to prepare a draft resolution containing recommendations as to the practical steps to be taken."

Grocer Is Convicted Of Rape, Attempted Murder of Youngster

DETROIT, April 25 (AP)—Frank Lobaido was convicted of rape and attempted murder of 7-year-old Rosalie Giganti today in a verdict returned by a jury of eight women and four men after eleven minutes of deliberation.

The verdict was announced from the jury box within fifteen minutes after the jurors had received the case and Judge Gerald Groat immediately began polling the jury individually.

Judge Groat had cautioned the packed court room against any demonstration and the spectators who lined the walls were quiet as the verdict was read.

The verdict makes Labaido a 29-year-old grocer, liable to a maximum sentenme of life imprisonment. As is customary in Michigan, the court deferred sentence to May 1 pending a probation report.

NAPERVILLE, Ill., April 25 (AP)—A. J. Wiley, recently discharged marine of Chicago, lost his wife and two small sons in the collision of two Burlington railroad passenger trains here today.

He took his family to the railroad station in Chicago to see them off on their trip to visit relatives in Burlington, Ia.

A little more than half an hour later they were dead. His sons were Randy, 2, and Perry, 4.

Pollack Indorses Lane's Candidacy

BALTIMORE, April 25 (AP)—William Preston Lane, Jr., tonight received the formal endorsement of James H. (Jack) Pollack and his Fourth Baltimore district organization, in the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Announcing the decision from the Trenton Democratic Club headquarters, Pollack said the organization also would support Lane's running mates for other offices.

Pollack declared the organization had come "to this decision after a careful poll and survey of the situation throughout the City of Baltimore. xxx After a check and recheck it has been definitely determined that W. Preston Lane is the man the people of the City of Baltimore want as the next chief executive of the state. xxx

"He will furnish strong and fearless leadership, which in these chaotic times will be sorely needed during the next four years."

"The splendid record of Preston Lane's past achievements speaks very eloquently for itself," Pollack said. "As attorney general of Maryland, as a brave and gallant soldier in World War I, as a brilliant lawyer, as an outstanding publisher, businessman, banker and industrialist, as Democratic national committman of Maryland, and is the victorious campaign manager in Maryland of our late, beloved President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Preston Lane's accomplishments have made themselves felt in the hearts and minds of the people of Maryland.

"The widespread approval of his candidacy reflects the esteem in which he is held by men and women in all walks of life, and one does not have to be an expert political analyst to predict that he will be the overwhelming choice of Maryland on primary day, and as our standard bearer, will insure Democratic success in November."

Other leading candidates on the Lane ticket coupled in the Pollack announcement are Hall Drummond for attorney general, and James J. Lacy for comptroller.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower Favors "Progressive Universal Disarmament"

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight advocated "progressive universal disarmament" as one of the three roads to enduring world peace but he pleaded for the forces to preserve the United States' national security until that goal is in sight.

"Organized international co-operation and mutual international understanding" are the other roads America must travel to attain universal peace, the army chief of staff said in an address prepared for delivery to the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

McNarney Takes Steps To Tighten Army Discipline

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today he had instituted a rigorous five-point program for combatting deterioration of discipline and morale among American troops in Europe, including new training programs and more strict control of curfew.

Admitting that both discipline and morale had declined seriously within the last few months, the European commander told a news conference he had issued orders that "prompt and corrective measures must be taken to remove the cause, deal swiftly and justly with the offenders, and prevent any future occurences."

Listed by McNarney as "corrective measures" were:

1. New training programs "in addition to the normal training programs for occupational duties" designed to leave the soldiers less idle time or unused energy to get into trouble.

2. Requirements that soldiers must have special passes to be out of their billets after 11 p. m., with only those having good conduct records granted such passes and the rule enforced by frequent checks.

3. More rigid control of firearms with court-martial for those who carry weapons illegally.

4. Swift punishment of lawlessness or offenses against civilians.

5. More intensive control of venereal disease.

"Other additional measures are contemplated," McNarney added.

Asked if he believed there was any "concerted, deliberate, Communist-inspired effort to undermine army efficiency," M Narney replied:

"I know of no such plan, and there was no thought of communism in my mind in issuing these orders."

He added, however, "if any organization were seeking to overthrow the American government by force it certainly would be good tactics to weaken its armed forces."

Strike of Railroad

brakemen, flagmen, dining car stewards, yard masters, yard men, switch tenders, baggage men and about two-thirds of the country's conductors.

A strike would tie-up 348 railroad lines and terminals — all the trunk lines and most feeders — only troop trains, hospital trains and milk trains would move, Whitney said.

Strike Call Affects 4,000 in Maryland

BALTIMORE, April 25 (AP) — A state official of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today that almost 4,000 Maryland engineers and trainmen belonging to eleven locals would join the May 18 strike ordered by the national unions.

Charles Mitzel, state BRT representative, said the Maryland union members had voted by more than ninety-eight per cent in favor of strike action if necessary to secure their demands upon management.

The principal demands, he said, were wage increases of twenty-five percent, with a $2.50 "basic day" minimum and a revision of forty-five working rules.

Murray Says Bilbo, Rankin Might Be "Victims" of CIO's Drive in South

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 25 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray said today a possible result of the CIO's organizing drive in the South might be the elimination from public life of Sen. Bilbo (D-Miss.) and Rep. Rankin (D-Miss).

Speaking to 1,200 delegates at the CIO textile workers union convention, Murray said the organizing campaign "would be a simple, pure unadulterated campaign of trade union organization to improve conditions of employment, to increase wages and to bring about conditions that will be socially better for the people living in the South," then added:

"If in the course of the next few years the by-product of that sort of a campaign results in a man being eliminated from the political picture, such as Bilbo and Rankin, then that is all to the good, isn't it?"

Murray indicated he expected AFL opposition in the drive, saying:

"I picked up a paper yesterday and I read where our rusty-bottomed friends are going down to the South also. Oh, you know who I mean. They are parrot-like in life, anyway. They did not think about wage increases until the CIO made its fight. x x x Well, God help America if it has to depend on this rusty-like, corroded type of leadership such as can be found in the federation of labor."

(The AFL said in the April issue of its magazine, "American Federationist," that the CIO drive in the South "may sound impressive x x x but to the AFL of the southern states it is just another of those seasonal winds.")

The CIO president also told the convention that "there has not been enacted by the federal Congress since the year 1937 a single, little bit of forward-looking social legislation."

"That is nine years—nine years American labor has been fighting with its back to the wall against those unholy coalitions created within the framework of the federal Congress to defeat the aims of the people," he continued.

had pointed out this omission, Hilldring issued another statement saying food allocations to Japan were, "of course, subject to continuing review in the light of developing conditions."

Exactly what Hilldring's statement meant, so far as any American reply to the commission's directive was concerned, was not immediately clear.

The Far Eastern Commission is composed of the United States, Russia, Britain, China, France, Canada, Australia New Zealand, the Netherlands, India and the Philippines. Its function is to lay down policies for the governing of Japan. The American representative, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, supported the policy declaration the commission issued today.

More Rice for Japanese

TOKYO, Friday, April 26 (AP)—More than 7,000 tons of imported American rice were released by Allied headquarters today only a few hours after news was received that the Far Eastern Commission in Washington had asked the United States to reconsider plans for food shipments to the Japanese.

"This rice represents the first major increment of imported staple foodstuffs being released for distribution by the Japanese although some surplus army food has been distributed to prevent its loss through spoilage," said a public relations office announcement.

The Far Eastern Commission had asked that the supreme commander give the Japanese only imports "essential immediately for the safety of occupation forces" and not give the Japanese preferential treatment in view of the world food crisis.

Smaller Bread Loaves, Less Beer for British

LONDON, April 25 (AP) — Britain tonight ordered smaller loaves of bread and less beer as an "additional contribution" to aid countries most needing food.

Prime Minister Attlee's office said use of flour for bread would be reduced by twelve and one-half per cent and use of barley for beer brewing by fifteen per cent.

Burlington's Exposition

available doctors, nurses and ambulances were summoned.

The Red Cross sent eleven ambulances, first aid crews and relief equipment.

Train crews and firemen worked for more than three hours with acetylene torches and axes cutting their way into last two cars of the Advance Flyer. Many of the victims, dead and injured alike, were pinned in the wreckage. Some of the victims, caught under the locomotive, could not be removed until the telescoped coach and Diesel were pulled apart.

Engiher Had Warning

The accident took a toll of dead and injured of between one third and one half of the number of passengers on both trains. The Burlington estimated the Advance Flyer carried between 175 and 200 passengers in its nine cars and the Exposition Flyer from 150 to 200.

Edward Flynn, executive vice president of the railroad, said a check of the signal system showed it was in perfect operation for normal safe operation of trains and that the engineer of the second train had a warning to stop for two miles in advance of the point of collision.

The trains left Union station, Chicago, at 12:35 p. m. (Central Standard Time) Flynn said, and at Downers Grove, six miles east of the collision, they were traveling three minutes apart. The distance, the official said, is a safe separation on an automatic block signal trunk.

Flynn said the collision occurred on a clear section of track approximately 1,100 feet west of a "wide vision" curve. At the curve, he said, was a red block signal warning oncoming trains to stop. Another 6,684 feet east of the red signal was a yellow caution board.

Fireman Is Killed

The engineer of an oncoming train, Flynn stated, would have a clear vision of the caution board three-quarters of a mile away from it.

E. H. Crayton, Galesburg, Ill., fireman on the Exposition Flyer was killed.

The engineer, W. W. Blaine, Galesburg, escaped with only a bump on his head.

"I put on the brakes and cut off the oil because of the danger of fire," Blaine said, "but it was too late. How I came out alive I'll never know."

Four sailors were among the passengers killed. Their identification tags were missing and their names were not learned immediately.

A total of thirty-five bodies were brought to three Naperville undertaking establishments.

Three of the seventy-five injured persons taken to St. Charles hospital in Aurora died shortly after arrival.

Another six injured were taken to St. Charles hospital in Aurora.

McNarney Takes Steps To Tighten Army Discipline

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today he had instituted a rigorous five-point program for combatting deterioration of discipline and morale among American troops in Europe, including new training programs and more strict control of curfew.

Admitting that both discipline and morale had declined seriously within the last few months, the European commander told a news conference he had issued orders that "prompt and corrective measures must be taken to remove the cause, deal swiftly and justly with the offenders, and prevent any future occurences."

Listed by McNarney as "corrective measures" were:

1. New training programs "in addition to the normal training programs for occupational duties" designed to leave the soldiers less idle time or unused energy to get into trouble.

2. Requirements that soldiers must have special passes to be out of their billets after 11 p. m., with only those having good conduct records granted such passes and the rule enforced by frequent checks.

3. More rigid control of firearms with court-martial for those who carry weapons illegally.

4. Swift punishment of lawlessness or offenses against civilians.

5. More intensive control of venereal disease.

"Other additional measures are contemplated," McNarney added.

Asked if he believed there was any "concerted, deliberate, Communist-inspired effort to undermine army efficiency," M Narney replied:

"I know of no such plan, and there was no thought of communism in my mind in issuing these orders."

He added, however, "if any organization were seeking to overthrow the American government by force it certainly would be good tactics to weaken its armed forces."

Strike of Railroad

brakemen, flagmen, dining car stewards, yard masters, yard men, switch tenders, baggage men and about two-thirds of the country's conductors.

A strike would tie-up 348 railroad lines and terminals — all the trunk lines and most feeders — only troop trains, hospital trains and milk trains would move, Whitney said.

Strike Call Affects 4,000 in Maryland

BALTIMORE, April 25 (AP) — A state official of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today that almost 4,000 Maryland engineers and trainmen belonging to eleven locals would join the May 18 strike ordered by the national unions.

Charles Mitzel, state BRT representative, said the Maryland union members had voted by more than ninety-eight per cent in favor of strike action if necessary to secure their demands upon management.

The principal demands, he said, were wage increases of twenty-five percent, with a $2.50 "basic day" minimum and a revision of forty-five working rules.

Murray Says Bilbo, Rankin Might Be "Victims" of CIO's Drive in South

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 25. (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray said today a possible result of the CIO's organizing drive in the South might be the elimination from public life of Sen. Bilbo (D-Miss.) and Rep. Rankin (D-Miss).

Speaking to 1,200 delegates at the CIO textile workers union convention, Murray said the organizing campaign "would be a simple, pure unadulterated campaign of trade union organization to improve conditions of employment, to increase wages and to bring about conditions that will be socially better for the people living in the South," then added:

"If in the course of the next few years the by-product of that sort of a campaign results in a man being eliminated from the political picture, such as Bilbo and Rankin, then that is all to the good, isn't it?"

Murray indicated he expected AFL opposition in the drive, saying:

"I picked up a paper yesterday and I read where our rusty-bottomed friends are going down to the South also. Oh, you know who I mean. They are parrot-like in life, anyway. They did not think about wage increases until the CIO made its fight. x x x Well, God help America if it has to depend on this rusty-like, corroded type of leadership such as can be found in the federation of labor."

(The AFL said in the April issue of its magazine, "American Federationist," that the CIO drive in the South "may sound impressive x x x but to the AFL of the southern states it is just another of those seasonal winds.")

The CIO president also told the convention that "there has not been enacted by the federal Congress since the year 1937 a single, little bit of forward-looking social legislation."

"That is nine years—nine years American labor has been fighting with its back to the wall against those unholy coalitions created within the framework of the federal Congress to defeat the aims of the people," he continued.

U. S. Brushes Off

had pointed out this omission, Hilldring issued another statement saying food allocations to Japan were, "of course, subject to continuing review in the light of developing conditions."

Exactly what Hilldring's statement meant, so far as any American reply to the commission's directive was concerned, was not immediately clear.

The Far Eastern Commission is composed of the United States, Russia, Britain, China, France, Canada, Australia New Zealand, the Netherlands, India and the Philippines. Its function is to lay down policies for the governing of Japan. The American representative, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, supported the policy declaration the commission issued today.

More Rice for Japanese

TOKYO, Friday, April 26 (AP)—More than 7,000 tons of imported American rice were released by Allied headquarters today only a few hours after news was received that the Far Eastern Commission in Washington had asked the United States to reconsider plans for food shipments to the Japanese.

"This rice represents the first major increment of imported staple foodstuffs being released for distribution by the Japanese although some surplus army food has been distributed to prevent its loss through spoilage," said a public relations office announcement.

The Far Eastern Commission had asked that the supreme commander give the Japanese only imports "essential immediately for the safety of occupation forces" and not give the Japanese preferential treatment in view of the world food crisis.

Smaller Bread Loaves, Less Beer for British

LONDON, April 25 (AP) — Britain tonight ordered smaller loaves of bread and less beer as an "additional contribution" to aid countries most needing food.

Prime Minister Attlee's office said use of flour for bread would be reduced by twelve and one-half per cent and use of barley for beer brewing by fifteen per cent.

The Red Cross sent eleven ambulances, first aid crews and relief equipment.

Train crews and firemen worked for more than three hours with acetylene torches and axes cutting their way into last two cars of the Advance Flyer. Many of the victims, dead and injured alike, were pinned in the wreckage. Some of the victims, caught under the locomotive, could not be removed until the telescoped coach and Diesel were pulled apart.

Enginer Had Warning

The accident took a toll of dead and injured of between one third and one half of the number of passengers on both trains. The Burlington estimated the Advance Flyer carried between 175 and 200 passengers in its nine cars and the Exposition Flyer from 150 to 200.

Edward Flynn, executive vice president of the railroad, said a check of the signal system showed it was in perfect operation for normal safe operation of trains and that the engineer of the second train had a warning to stop for two miles in advance of the point of collision.

The trains left Union station, Chicago, at 12:35 p. m. (Central Standard Time) Flynn said, and at Downers Grove, six miles east of the collision, they were traveling three minutes apart. The distance, the official said, is a safe separation on an automatic block signal trunk.

Flynn said the collision occurred on a clear section of track approximately 1,100 feet west of a "wide vision" curve. At the curve, he said, was a red block signal warning oncoming trains to stop. Another 6,684 feet east of the red signal was a yellow caution board.

Fireman Is Killed

The engineer of an oncoming train Flynn stated, would have a clear vision of the caution board three-quarters of a mile away from it.

E. H. Crayton, Galesburg, Ill., fireman on the Exposition Flyer was killed.

The engineer, W. W. Blaine, Galesburg, escaped with only a bump on his head.

"I put on the brakes and cut off the oil because of the danger of fire," Blaine said, "but it was too late. How I came out alive I'll never know."

Four sailors were among the passengers killed. Their identification tags were missing and their names were not learned immediately.

A total of thirty-five bodies were brought to three Naperville undertaking establishments.

Three of the seventy-five injured persons taken to St. Charles hospital in Aurora died shortly after arrival.

Another six injured were taken to St. Charles hospital in Aurora.

Stocks Continue To Stumble; Late Support Trims Early Recessions

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Stocks general continued to stumble in today's market although exceptions were plentiful and late support cut early losses running to four or more points.

Dealings were liveliest in the forenoon liquidation, tapering after midday. Closing recessions running to three points or so were in the majority. Transfers totalled 1,390,000 shares compared with 1,500,000 Wednesday.

Bethlehem Steel dropped one and seven-eighth at $103.12 and, after the final gong, directors voted the usual $1.50 dividend. United States Steel wiped out a morning loss, ending with a net gain of one-eighth at $82.12.

National Department Stores was a lone merchandising strong spot, rising three and one-half points to $53.50. National Distillers added seven-eighth at $70.87½. Philip Morris was up two and one-fourth.

Plus signs were retained by Curtiss Publishing, Republic Steel, Sante Fe, American Airlines, Electric Power and Light, Goodrich and Anaconda.

Eastman Kodak and Union Pacific conceded three each at $258 and $157.50, respectively. Lesser decliners were Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, American Telephone, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Company, American Can, Air Reduction, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and J. C. Penney.

Ahead in the Curb were Northern States Power "A" and Beaunit Mills. In the minus column were American Cyanamid, Aluminum of America and Central States Electric preferred. Turnover here was 480,000 shares versus 570,000 yesterday.

Corporate and long-term government bonds declined further although selected railroad obligations found some support.

The restricted long-term governments dropped the permissible one-fourth of a point in dealers' markets while other loans rallied one-eighth or more. On the stock exchange, not a single sale of treasury issues was reported, although offering prices were below Wednesday's closing bids.

Sales totaled $5,880,000 against $5,960,000 Wednesday.

Human Ashes Lie Unburied in Warsaw

WARSAW, (AP) — Two tons of human ashes lie in the center of Warsaw. Newspapers are demanding that the former garden of the general inspectorate of armed forces, where the Germans shot thousands of Poles and burned their bodies, be immediately cleaned up and the ashes buried.

Daffodils Swapped For Strawberries

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—The city of Tacoma swapped a plane load of daffodils for strawberries and figured it was an even trade.

Six thousand pounds of Florida's best strawberries were brought by plane from Plant City. For its return trip the plane loaded up with Washington state's choice daffodils.

Girl Is Worried By Boy Friend's Lack of Neatness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

If there's one fault a girl finds it hard to overlook in her boy friend, it's carelessness about his personal appearance.

She wants him to be something to show off to the other girls when they go out together. She wants to be proud of him, and to have others admire him—and if they envy her a little, that's all to the good!

But when he just doesn't care how he looks; when she's taken the greatest pains to be smartly dressed and beautifully groomed for a date with him and then he turns up looking as though he'd slept on a bench in the railroad station all night, the evening's ruined before it begins.

Here's a girl with this problem. She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am 17, and I go out with a boy 20 years old. He's in college, and whenever he gets a chance he comes down and takes me wherever I want to go and to very nice places and good shows. He is a very fine young man, and my father and mother think so, too. I can't say right now if I'm in love with him or not, but from his letters, he is in love with me.

"But there is one thing I don't know what to do about. He will be home in June and will be coming to see me. I have a few affairs to go to in June, but he is a very big fellow, fat and not a neat dresser. I just can't say anything to him to hurt his feelings and I'm ashamed to ask him to any of these affairs where he will meet my friends, because you know how girls are. They pass remarks and they don't realize what a wonderful disposition he has. I have fine clothes, and everyone tells me I am attractive, and my mother is always buying the latest styles for me and of course that makes him look worse.

"How can I change him, or do you think my mother could tell him in a nice way? My mother says she could, but she doesn't want him to feel she is butting in.

"D. G."

It's a fine thing your boy friend has such a wonderful disposition, D. G. That's a good start for solving your problem. For if he is good-natured, and loves you, into the bargin, it ought not to be too hard to get him to dress to please you.

I don't think you need to call on your mother for help. I think you can handle this situation by yourself all right.

Why not, between now and June, when he comes to see you, try the psychological approach in your letters? When you write him about a movie you've been to, starring your favorite male actor, rhapsodize about him, and add that one of the things you most like about him is his meticulous grooming, and the way he wears his clothes. Or write him about a party you've been to, and describe the way the boys dressed, and tell which one's appearance you liked the best, and why. You might even mention some of the things you'd like to take him to in June, and say you realize he'll want to know what the boys will be wearing so he can be planning his own wardrobe accordingly.

Oh, there are all sorts of subtle ways to let him know how you'd like him too look, instead of coming right out and telling him that you don't like the way he looks now. If he loves you, he'll be watching out for ways to please you, and I'll bet if you handle this right in your letters, you'll get a wonderful surprise when you see him next June.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

"...gets GRO-PUP every day"

Ralph W. Segerstrom, owner of Danedell Kennels, Long Lake, Minn., says: "My Black and Harlequin Great Dane breeding stock is in fine condition. They get GRO-PUP every day. I start my puppies on GRO-PUP, too, and they're strong, healthy and full of vigor."

MOST breeders and veterinarians use and recommend a foundation diet of good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many feed Kellogg's GRO-PUP because it provides all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need for growth and vigor.

Kellogg's GRO-PUP is thrifty. And dogs love its hearty, meaty flavor.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

"...gets GRO-PUP every day"

Ralph W. Segerstrom, owner of Danedell Kennels, Long Lake, Minn., says: "My Black and Harlequin Great Dane breeding stock is in fine condition. They get GRO-PUP every day. I start my puppies on GRO-PUP, too, and they're strong, healthy and full of vigor."

MOST breeders and veterinarians use and recommend a foundation diet of good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many feed Kellogg's GRO-PUP because it provides all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need for growth and vigor.

Kellogg's GRO-PUP is thrifty. And dogs love its hearty, meaty flavor.

Get this scientifically formulated dog food in 3 forms: Ribbon, Meal, or Pel-etts—at your grocer's or pet shop. Made by KELLOGG'S of Battle Creek.

Baseball Grounds In Frostburg Are Being Improved

Work Estimated To Cost Approximately $800, Legion Group Says

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, April 25—The baseball grounds near the Frostburg swimming pool, recently taken over by the American Legion, are being reconditioned in preparation for the opening game of the Bi-State league scheduled to be played in Frostburg May 5.

The athletic committee of the American Legion, headed by William H. Lemmert and Post Commander Charles Cole, are in charge of the work, which, according to Cole, will cost the Legion between $600 and $800.

The grounds are being graded and the position of home plate has been changed to place the players in better view of the spectators from both sides of the field. The bleachers are being repaired and new dugouts constructed. The area between the ball park and the swimming pool has also been graded to provide more space for recreation activities of children.

The city is co-operating with the American Legion by furnishing the use of trucks to haul dirt from one part of the field to another section where it may be needed for leveling purposes. The county grader was also donated through the courtesy of County Commissioner S. W. Green. It is planned to remove the fence, already down in many sections, and open the games to the public, depending on voluntary donations from spectators for the support of the club.

Plan Alumni Association

Graduates of Beall high school interested in forming a permanent Beall high school alumni association are asked to attend a meeting at the school, Sunday, April 28, at 2:30 p. m. which has been arranged by a committee appointed Sunday, April 7, by the reunion committee to submit a constitution and by-laws for a permanent organization and to plan for a reunion to be held in 1947. The committee consists of Miss Leviah Daniels, Miss Gertrude Williams, Martin Hartig, Ralph M. Race and Joseph Downey.

A spokesman for the committee stated today that many graduates of the school are under the impression that an alumni association is already in existence, while as a matter of fact the only group representing the alumni is the reunion committee appointed in 1940 to hold a reunion of all graduates of the school.

It is the desire of the committee and many graduates of the school that an alumni association be formed at the earliest possible date, and therefore the meeting announced for next Sunday has been called, the spokesman said.

Old Suit Involving Two Coal Firms Is Completed

Sale of New Hope Coal Company Property for $300 Is Confirmed

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 25—In Mineral County Circuit Court today Judge Harlan M. Calhoun, Moorefield, presiding, the case of the Davis Coal and Coke Company against the New Hope Coal Company was disposed of.

In this case of longstanding before the court, the Davis company was asking damages from the New Hope firm on what was termed a breach of contract existing between two companies. Judge Ernest M. See, having been named as trustee in the action some years ago, was disqualified to hear the case.

At a former term of court, Judge Calhoun appointed R. A. Welch and Lester Reynolds commissioners to sell the property of the defendent, the New Hope Coal Company, the proceeds of the sale to be applied toward the payment of costs and the liquidation of damages claimed by the plaintiff, the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Commissioner Welch having died, Reynolds submitted a report of the sale of the property of the New Hope Coal Company for the sum of $300. Though this sum represents scarcely more than ten per cent of damages sought, claims and costs, the sale was confirmed and the case was retired.

Judge See stigned an order granting a divorce to William A. Robey from Terese U. Robey.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 25—In Mineral County Circuit Court today Judge Harlan M. Calhoun, Moorefield, presiding, the case of the Davis Coal and Coke Company against the New Hope Coal Company was disposed of.

In this case of longstanding before the court, the Davis company was asking damages from the New Hope firm on what was termed a breach of contract existing between two companies. Judge Ernest M. See, having been named as trustee in the action some years ago, was disqualified to hear the case.

At a former term of court, Judge Calhoun appointed R. A. Welch and Lester Reynolds commissioners to sell the property of the defendent, the New Hope Coal Company, the proceeds of the sale to be applied toward the payment of costs and the liquidation of damages claimed by the plaintiff, the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Commissioner Welch having died, Reynolds submitted a report of the sale of the property of the New Hope Coal Company for the sum of $300. Though this sum represents scarcely more than ten per cent of damages sought, claims and costs, the sale was confirmed and the case was retired.

Judge See stigned an order granting a divorce to William A. Robey from Terese U. Robey.

Simplicity

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The great over-ruling laws of the universe are actually few in number. The Creator saw to that, but dependent upon these laws are many subsidiary ones that fall in naturally with the greater primary laws.

The outstanding executive is the one who has simplified his organization to the point where it is rarely necessary for him to issue new instructions. Details are for subordinates but even here simplicity of duties is essential. There is never chaos where there is careful simplicity of plans, and clarity of thought to carry them out.

People who live the simplest of lives, always seem to be the happiest. Even great responsibilities can be simplified, and usually are, where they are worked out successfully. It takes the same salesmanship to sell a dollar article as it does to sell one ten times, or more, in value. Values remain in their place. It's we who distort them, or give to them a false appraisement.

Simple, substantial clothes look best upon either a man or woman. Grand show deceives no one. Even elegance can be most simple. And the simplest thing can be most elegant. In Nature may be found perfect examples of each.

I have always liked the simplicity and directness of thought, as exemplified by those hardy fisher folk. They live an outdoor life, facing all the elements. Hardship is no stranger to any of them. Their toil, for small compensation, is long and arduous. Yet they are born philosophers, and their words are worth listening to and digesting.

Most governments are unwieldly because they are not simplified. Too many departments, too many overlapping duties, too many people with nothing important to do, who get in the way of those who have much to do that is important. It has been well said that the best government is the one that governs the least. After all, in a democracy, the people rule—or should—and so the simpler the governmental set-up, the more efficient it can be, and the easier understood by all the people.

One of the reasons why the Bible is read over and over again, is because of its simplicity of wording, and its beauty of expression.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

To bet or not to bet . . . that is the question along the coast line of Los Angeles county. A certain gent, who used to run a fleet of gambling boats off the Long Beach coast, is planning to bring them back. But I don't think the district attorney likes the idea. Yesterday I saw him down at the dock pricing some surplus submarines.

The city says it won't let the gambler run water-taxis out to his boats. I guess the customers will have to swim out, holding their money in their teeth. Of course, they won't have that trouble coming back . . . they won't have any teeth!

The first gambling ship is going to be a reconverted minelayer, and they're keeping the minelaying equipment intact on the boat. They figure it'll come in handy for getting rid of losers!

Of course, the gambling boats will have to be anchosed three miles out. Off this Southern California coast, they have to go that far to get into clean water.

I went out to one of those gambling boats before the war and they do give you wonderful service. If you win, they give you a rowboat to go home in . . . with one oar! Being on board a boat makes it pretty difficult to shoot crap. When the deck starts rocking back and forth, you can't tell the spots on the dice from the ones in front of your eyes. And the money really changes hands fast on those boats. I saw one silver dollar there and the eagle on it had been worn down to a squab.

Simplicity

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The great over-ruling laws of the universe are actually few in number. The Creator saw to that, but dependent upon these laws are many subsidiary ones that fall in naturally with the greater primary laws.

The outstanding executive is the one who has simplified his organization to the point where it is rarely necessary for him to issue new instructions. Details are for subordinates but even here simplicity of duties is essential. There is never chaos where there is careful simplicity of plans, and clarity of thought to carry them out.

People who live the simplest of lives, always seem to be the happiest. Even great responsibilities can be simplified, and usually are, where they are worked out successfully. It takes the same salesmanship to sell a dollar article as it does to sell one ten times, or more, in value. Values remain in their place. It's we who distort them, or give to them a false appraisement.

Simple, substantial clothes look best upon either a man or woman. Grand show deceives no one. Even elegance can be most simple. And the simplest thing can be most elegant. In Nature may be found perfect examples of each.

I have always liked the simplicity and directness of thought, as exemplified by those hardy fisher folk. They live an outdoor life, facing all the elements. Hardship is no stranger to any of them. Their toil, for small compensation, is long and arduous. Yet they are born philosophers, and their words are worth listening to and digesting.

Most governments are unwieldly because they are not simplified. Too many departments, too many overlapping duties, too many people with nothing important to do, who get in the way of those who have much to do that is important. It has been well said that the best government is the one that governs the least. After all, in a democracy, the people rule—or should—and so the simpler the governmental set-up, the more efficient it can be, and the easier understood by all the people.

One of the reasons why the Bible is read over and over again, is because of its simplicity of wording, and its beauty of expression.

(Protected, 1945, By The George Matthew Adams Service)

—Among primitive peoples, it is believed that a person can change his personality and avert threatening dangers by changing his name.

—Chile will issue more silver coins to stimulate its silver mining industry.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

To bet or not to bet . . . that is the question along the coast line of Los Angeles county. A certain gent, who used to run a fleet of gambling boats off the Long Beach coast, is planning to bring them back. But I don't think the district attorney likes the idea. Yesterday I saw him down at the dock pricing some surplus submarines.

The city says it won't let the gambler run water-taxis out to his boats. I guess the customers will have to swim out, holding their money in their teeth. Of course, they won't have that trouble coming back . . . they won't have any teeth!

The first gambling ship is going to be a reconverted minelayer, and they're keeping the minelaying equipment intact on the boat. They figure it'll come in handy for getting rid of losers!

Of course, the gambling boats will have to be anchosed three miles out. Off this Southern California coast, they have to go that far to get into clean water.

I went out to one of those gambling boats before the war and they do give you wonderful service. If you win, they give you a rowboat to go home in . . . with one oar! Being on board a boat makes it pretty difficult to shoot crap. When the deck starts rocking back and forth, you can't tell the spots on the dice from the ones in front of your eyes. And the money really changes hands fast on those boats. I saw one silver dollar there and the eagle on it had been worn down to a squab.

BALTIMORE, April 25 (AP)—The Baltimore regional office of the Veterans Administration announced today that 3,178 applications had been received from veterans during March for training under the GI bill. W. L. Limburg, office manager, said also that the Washington office had received 6,207 applications. Total number for the Richmond branch area — which includes the Baltimore and Washington offices—was 31,301 during March. The February total had been 30,758.

ELDORADO, Ill., (AP)—In 1927, T. E. Leeper bought a round-trip ticket on the Illinois Central railroad to St. Louis, but failed to use it. All Rights-Of-Way Secured for Water Line, Edwards Says

Announcement that approximately fifty options, representing the total number necessary for rights of way for the second water line from Lake Gordon to the city, have been secured was made yesterday by Commissioner William J. Edwards.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said that bids for construction of the water line will be asked as soon as final construction plans are completed.

Deeds have ben prepared for most of the property and are being executed as rapidly as possible. It was necessary to revise some agreements due to property sales.

Officials said the figure representing the total cost of securing the rights-of-way was not available today due to the changes. About a month ago it was announced options had been obtained on all but three properties at a cost of $12,422.

With engineering work on the proposed line about completed, it is expected that the Evitts Creek Water Company, under which the city operates its holdings in Pennsylvania, is about to close an agreement with Pennsylvania for the hard surfacing of a road and the erection of a guard rail on the dam property.

The road, starting at the concrete bridge over a neck of Lake Gordon, to Lake Koon will be hard surfaced and a guard rail placed along the banks of Lake Gordon at danger points.

Under the agreement the city will furnish the posts for the guard rail, which will be erected by the state, Pennsylvania will be reimbursed for the cost of erection. Then the state will maintain both the guard rail and the road.

Boxer Dies 24 Hours After Collapse in Ring

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 25—(AP)—Harvey Weiss, 22, New York City welterweight and former marine, died of a cerebral hemorrhage at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital tonight, less than 24 hours after he collapsed in the ring after losing an eight-round decision.

Weiss's death was the fourth among eastern boxers in the last two months.

Harvey collapsed a few moments after he dropped the decision to Patsy Gall, Freeland, Pa., last night. Weiss went down for a count of nine when Gall threw a right to his jaw with only ten seconds of the last round remaining.

Young Woman

Shimp home and the Widder home. Mrs. Shimp was there with me at the time; her husband's a fireman, and Mrs. John Widder's husband is a fireman too.

Of course, after the ambulance and the doctors got there we didn't do much because they had nurses there, but I did carry water and help the nurses to help the wounded.

The whole thing looked to me like one mass of piled up tin. Injured people were lying all around. They had an awful time getting them out from the wreckage.

Thre was just a little moaning because most of those who were hurt were so badly hurt they didn't know it, or were unconscious. It took about an hour and a half to get all the injured out.

The Exposition Flyer's engine was right in the rear car of the first train, just as if someone had squeezed them together like an accordion. It was an awful scene.

I'm very excited and upset. They're using Kroehler's cafeteria as a hospital now. I've never seen such a crowd in Naperville in all my life, and I've lived here all twenty-one years of it. It's a sight I'll never forget. I've seen bad fires and everything, but I never want to see anything like this again.

Two-Wheeled Safety

AP Newsfeatures

AMERICA is whipping around the peacetime corner on two wheels. Bicycle manufacturers, now developing full-scale production for the first time since Pearl Harbor, believe more Americans will be riding bikes next year than at any time since the gay nineties, when almost everyone rode pedal-powered. Cycling can be fun, but the National Safety Council says it can be dangerous. It offers these pictures to help avoid the wrong and do the right thing.

• • • Obey traffic signals.

• • • Try stunts in traffic.

• • • Ride single file.

• • • Hitch on vehicles.

• • • Walk across busy streets.

• • • Carry passengers.

J. W. Bishop Heads Taxpayers Group

James W. Bishop was elected president of the Allegany County Taxpayers Association at a meeting Wednesday night in Central YMCA when a resolution was passed deploring the provisions for deficit spending in the federal budget for the coming year.

Copies were ordered forwarded to Senators Millard E. Tydings and George L. Radcliffe and Rep. J. Glenn Beall.

Besides Bishop the election included Harry B. Simpson, to the moard of directors; Harold W. Smith, secretary; and Lynn C. Lashley, treasurer.

Plans were completed for a countywide mass meeting at the City Hall for Tuesday night when John L. Hougardy, director of the Maryland Public Expenditure Council, Baltimore, will speak. Delbert Kitzmiller is chairman of arrangements.

The complete directorship list includes Alex R. Buchanan, George R. Hughes, Delbert Kitzmiller, Robert T. Powell, Alvin H. Ternent, W. H. Kight, Harry B. Simpson, Clarence F. Schafer, Hugh Stevenson, Wilbur V. Wilson, John J. Robinson, Arthur J. Weber, Robert W. Young, and Frank L. Wolfhope, all of Cumberland; Harry J. Barton, Pinto; Arthur P. Hoffa, Barton; William B. Yates, Frostburg; John L. Ort, Midland; E. J. Fannon, Mt. Savage, and Horace P. Whitworth, Westernport.

An electric fan, put to work for an hour or so each week in the closet, will freshen up the stored summer clothing—and discourage moths.

—A physician, by use of ultra-violet light, now can determine within seconds, in advance of usual signs, whether a patient is dead.

Decisions Given In Four Arbitration Cases at Celanese

Albert E. Steinem, arbitrator, Washington, D. C., has handed down decisions in cases involving the discharge of four local Celanese employes heard before him in the Allegany county court house in January of this year.

In the case of Elmer J. Cross, 517 Central avenue, this city, an employe in the service department, discharged for refusing to return to his work during an unauthorized strike, the action of the company was sustained by the arbitrator, and Cross's claim for reinstatement and lost earnings was disallowed.

In the cases of Mrs. Jenevie H. McGann, 125 Henry street, Cumberland, and Mrs. Beatrice H. Morton, 416 North Mechanic street, Cumberland, employes of the downtwisting subdivision, discharged on October 18, 1945, for failure to obey reasonable factory rules, the arbitrator held the discharge not justified.

Mrs. McGann and Mrs. Morton were not reinstated to their former positions due to the fact that their furlough dates had been reached. They were, however, granted back pay to their furlough dates in January, less deductions for previous irregular attendance.

In the last case, the arbitrator upheld the actions of the company in discharging Mrs. Eva Chaney, 13 Harrison street, this city, an employe of the service department. Mrs. Chaney, a committeewoman of the local union, was discharged on October 26, 1945, for retarding production and advising fellow-employes to slow down their work.

Of the twenty permits for new construction, twelve were for residences, and five of the permits granted for additions or improvements called for the remodeling of garages or stores into apartments. Thus living quarters are in the process of completion for seventeen families, it was pointed out.

By comparison, twenty - nine building permits, totaling $50,270, were granted in March.

TWO YOUTHS CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED CAR THEFT ARE PAROLED

A 15-year-old Lonaconing lad and a 16-year-old Toledo, Ohio, youth charged with breaking and entering a local service station early Tuesday morning, were paroled yesterday after hearings in juvenile court. The Lonaconing boy was paroled in the custody of his mother and the Toledo youth was sent to his home.

Mrs. Nora Fleming, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, at the request of Lt. B. F. Gaffney, of the local police department, wired the Travelers Aid Society in Toledo, O., at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, requesting an investigation of the Toledo youth, and authorization to return him to Toledo. The information and the authorization were received by Mrs. Fleming at 4 o'clock. She purchased a ticket and sent the youth home on the 7 o'clock bus last evening.

The boys were caught by Officer P. C. Jenkins while trying to steal a car from the Kessell service station, North Mechanic street, police said. Police said the Toledo youth served for a while in the army but was discharged when authorities learned his correct age.

Police said the lad had spent $2.50 of the change and that the prospective banker had wrapped practically all the ill-gotten wealth as if for deposit.

Assault charges against Mrs. Kate Smith, 412 Holland street, preferred by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Smith, were dismissed by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court. The defendant was ordered to pay $2 court cost.

Seeks Restaurant Concession

Chapman submitted a letter from Charles C. Sullivan, operator of a restaurant at 332 Virginia avenue, asking for a restaurant and night club concession at the airport. Sullivan stated the restaurant would be open twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week if business warranted, and proposed that his rent be set at eight per cent of his monthly gross receipts. He also proposed building a dance pavilion at the port, both structures to be located near the parking area.

The airport manager said several other persons had made applications for the restaurant concession. Heskett suggested that Chapman contact the Howard Johnson firm, which operates restaurants located on highways throughout the eastern United States, regarding the concession.

In the general discussion which closed the meeting, Chapman suggested that a picket fence three feet in height be constructed around the concrete tie-down apron near the administration building to prevent accidents by keeping visitors at a safe distance from planes coming in or taking off.

Visiting School

visitors inspected everything including the shiny kitchen utensils and Mr. Kopp looked in the ice box as he said was his custom.

In view of the prolonged tour at Fort Hill the group left slightly behind schedule but all visitors declared that going through a school like Fort Hill was a pleasure with Mr. Day commenting that the "enthusiasm of those teachers is as contagious as the measles," and with Mr. Lowndes stating that he was impressed by the orderly attitude of the students who went quietly from classroom to study hall without haste or bustle and apparently without supervision. Mr. Orem said that that was always a sign of a well-run school.

The next stop was the Cresaptown school where the group was welcomed by Miss Myra Nefflin, the principal, who said the school is now serving an average of 530 students. The students at Cresaptown yesterday ate meat, potatoes and gravy, peaches, slaw, bread and butter, and a half pint of milk for the sum of fifteen cents per plate. The visitors gave the cafeteria setup at Cresaptown somewhat more study than the elaborate Fort Hill setup. They were also impressed by the school's health center with Mr. Pullen stating that more and more the schools will become the center of community life and activities.

Visit Hammond Street

The Hammond street school cafeteria at Westernport, a former basement, also was studied carefully by the visitors although Miss Nellie Dowling, the principal, regretted that the group did not arrive in time to see the cafeteria in actual operation.

While the Midland school was not on yesterday's itinerary, Superintendent Kopp halted the group at this point to show the visitors one of the most attractive little cafeterias in the system. The visitors expressed amazement that a former cellar and various other corners could have been converted into such a comfortable, pleasant dining room.

Miss Alice McCormick, principal of the McCoole school, had been selected as hostess for the members of Group Six for lunch and the members of the party had the pleasure of eating with the pupils in a cheerful dining room with colorful curtains at the windows and even more colorful murals on the walls by the pupils. The lunch served at McCoole school consisted of meat loaf, potatoes and gravy, a tossed salad, rolls, milk, peas and butter. Asked how she managed to procure the butter, Miss McCormick said it was a secret. While most of the members of Group Six found that one helping was more than ample for their needs, the pupils rose to a man at the cry of "seconds" and returned to the dining room with heaping second helpings. Miss McCormick explained that it was not her practice to carry any surplus food over from day to day.

While the members of the group made the tour primarily with the idea of inspecting cafeterias, they branched out considerably and actually gave entire schools a careful inspection. The ubiquitous Mr. Pullen asked many questions about numerous details and Mr. Lowndes took pleasure in visiting the various schoolrooms and accepted a book from one group and proceeded to ask the children a few questions. Consequently, Mr. Kopp was obliged to keep a close check on the time but the group arrived back at the administration building on Washington street on the dot.

Lunch Program Discussed

With the tour completed, the afternoon session was given over to three short talks by Allegany county school officials regarding their work in connection with the lunch program. Miss Flora G. Dowler, nutrition consultant, explained what foods should be eaten in what quantities which explanation showed why the schools feed balanced lunches and why it is important.

William P. Cooper, director of the school lunch program in the county, gave a concise, factual account of how the program was set up, organized and developed — a talk which proved of special interest to the visitors and resulted in many questions. The members of the conference were so impressed by this discussion, that it was suggested that Mr. Cooper's address be mimeographed and sent to all school systems in the county for future study.

The concluding speaker was Miss Ruby M. Adams, director of elementary education in the county, who explained the work to date of the county nutrition group which is planning to expand the scope of the lunch program and turn the project into a community enterprise that will extend right into the homes of parents.

At this point, Superintendent Bennett took charge of a discussion period with the visitors firing questions at Superintendent Kopp, Cooper, Miss Adams and other members of the staff. The questions dealt with practically all phases of the setup including possible future plans and the fact that the maintenance aid furnished by the government enables the schools to sell the lunches at fifteen cents to pupils able to pay and give the food free to pupils without means at the moment.

Entertained at Reception

At 5 o'clock the visitors were entertained at a reception given by Miss Elizabeth Lowndes and Mr. Lowndes at their residence, 27 Washington street. Following this, the group drove to the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club where they had a chicken dinner. Other than officials who had attended the afternoon session, guests at the speakers' table included County Commissioner James Holmes, who was referred to as "the father of five and consequently didn't have to be told about the importance of schools," Horace Whitworth, Sr., board of education and attorney to the county commissioners, William A. Gunter, former president of the board of education, and Edward Dashiell, president of the school board.

The concluding event of the day for the visitors was the annual music festival presented by the high schools at Fort Hill high school where the guests were given a musical respite from conference affairs. The meeting will resume this morning at 9:30 o'clock with a conference on pupil transportation at the administration building.

All Rights-Of-Way Secured for Water Line, Edwards Says

Announcement that approximately fifty options, representing the total number necessary for rights of way for the second water line from Lake Gordon to the city, have been secured was made yesterday by Commissioner William J. Edwards.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said that bids for construction of the water line will be asked as soon as final construction plans are completed.

Deeds have ben prepared for most of the property and are being executed as rapidly as possible. It was necessary to revise some agreements due to property sales.

Officials said the figure representing the total cost of securing the rights-of-way was not available today due to the changes. About a month ago it was announced options had been obtained on all but three properties at a cost of $12,422.

With engineering work on the proposed line about completed, it is expected that the Evitts Creek Water Company, under which the city operates its holdings in Pennsylvania, is about to close an agreement with Pennsylvania for the hard surfacing of a road and the erection of a guard rail on the dam property.

The road, starting at the concrete bridge over a neck of Lake Gordon, to Lake Koon will be hard surfaced and a guard rail placed along the banks of Lake Gordon at danger points.

Under the agreement the city will furnish the posts for the guard rail, which will be erected by the state, Pennsylvania will be reimbursed for the cost of erection. Then the state will maintain both the guard rail and the road.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 25—(AP)—Harvey Weiss, 22, New York City welterweight and former marine, died of a cerebral hemorrhage at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital tonight, less than 24 hours after he collapsed in the ring after losing an eight-round decision.

Weiss's death was the fourth among eastern boxers in the last two months.

Of course, after the ambulance and the doctors got there we didn't do much because they had nurses there, but I did carry water and help the nurses to help the wounded.

The whole thing looked to me like one mass of piled up tin. Injured people were lying all around. They had an awful time getting them out from the wreckage.

Thre was just a little moaning because most of those who were hurt were so badly hurt they didn't know it, or were unconscious. It took about an hour and a half to get all the injured out.

The Exposition Flyer's engine was right in the rear car of the first train, just as if someone had squeezed them together like an accordion. It was an awful scene.

I'm very excited and upset. They're using Kroehler's cafeteria as a hospital now. I've never seen such a crowd in Naperville in all my life, and I've lived here all twenty-one years of it. It's a sight I'll never forget. I've seen bad fires and everything, but I never want to see anything like this again.

CORRIGANVILLE LAD TO RECEIVE HEARINGS ON MOTOR CHARGES

Donald M. Kennedy, 17-year-old Corriganville youth, will be given a hearing in trial magistrates court this morning on charges of unlawfully taking a motor vehicle and of operating without a license.

He was arrested Wednesday by Trooper Harold Basore, of the state police, who charged that the lad stole a car on North Centre street and then wrecked it after being pursued from near Nave's Crossroads to Frederick street.

Redinger, same address, forfeited $11.45 on a charge of permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle. Both were arrested Sunday on Route 40 by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck.

Another driver, Kenneth P. MacMillan, Baltimore, forfeited $11.45 collateral for speeding Sunday on Route 40, four miles east of this city. Trooper Rotruck made the arrest.

CONTRACTORS AGREE ON WAGE INCREASES FOR LABORERS

A joint stipulation providing a general wage increase for all building and highway construction workers of this area was signed yesterday by general contractors of this city and Local 616, International Hod Carriers, Building and Construction Laborers Union, AFL, R. C. Simmons, business agent, reported last evening.

The request for the increase will be filed with the Wage Adjustment Board of the Department of Labor today, the union official said.

The new rates, subject to the approval of the wage board, will provide a ten cents an hour wage boost for general construction laborers and a seventeen and one-half cents hourly increase for semi-skilled construction laborers.

The general laborers rate will be increased from seventy-five to eighty-five cents hourly and covers all building and highway construction workers. The semi-skilled rate will be increased from eighty-two and one-half cents to $1 per hour.

Local 616, Laborers union, comprises about 400 members, Simmons said.

Visiting School

visitors inspected everything including the shiny kitchen utensils and Mr. Kopp looked in the ice box as he said was his custom.

In view of the prolonged tour at Fort Hill the group left slightly behind schedule but all visitors declared that going through a school like Fort Hill was a pleasure with Mr. Day commenting that the "enthusiasm of those teachers is as contagious as the measles," and with Mr. Lowndes stating that he was impressed by the orderly attitude of the students who went quietly from classroom to study hall without haste or bustle and apparently without supervision. Mr. Orem said that that was always a sign of a well-run school.

The next stop was the Cresaptown school where the group was welcomed by Miss Myra Neffiin, the principal, who said the school is now serving an average of 530 students. The students at Cresaptown yesterday ate meat, potatoes and gravy, peaches, slaw, bread and butter, and a half pint of milk for the sum of fifteen cents per plate. The visitors gave the cafeteria setup at Cresaptown somewhat more study than the elsborate Fort Hill setup. They were also impressed by the school's health center with Mr. Pullen stating that more and more the schools will become the center of community life and activities.

Visit Hammond Street

The Hammond street school cafeteria at Westernport, a former basement, also was studied carefully by the visitors although Miss Nellie Dowling, the principal, regretted that the group did not arrive in time to see the cafeteria in actual operation.

While the Midland school was not on yesterday's itinerary, Superintendent Kopp halted the group at this point to show the visitors one of the most attractive little cafeterias in the system. The visitors expressed amazement that a former cellar and various other corners could have been converted into such a comfortable, pleasant dining room.

Miss Alice McCormick, principal of the McCoole school, had been selected as hostess for the members of Group Six for lunch and the members of the party had the pleasure of eating with the pupils in a cheerful dining room with colorful curtains at the windows and even more colorful murals on the walls by the pupils. The lunch served at McCoole school consisted of meat loaf, potatoes and gravy, a tossed salad, rolls, milk, peas and butter. Asked how she managed to procure the butter, Miss McCormick said it was a secret. While most of the members of Group Six found that one helping was more than ample for their needs, the pupils rose to a man at the cry of "seconds" and returned to the dining room with heaping second helpings. Miss McCormick explained that it was not her practice to carry any surplus food over from day to day.

While the members of the group made the tour primarily with the idea of inspecting cafeterias, they branched out considerably and actually gave entire schools a careful inspection. The ubiquitous Mr. Pullen asked many questions about numerous details and Mr. Lowndes took pleasure in visiting the various schoolrooms and accepted a book from one group and proceeded to ask the children a few questions. Consequently, Mr. Kopp was obliged to keep a close check on the time but the group arrived back at the administration building on Washington street on the dot.

Lunch Program Discussed

With the tour completed, the afternoon session was given over to three short talks by Allegany county school officials regarding their work in connection with the lunch program. Miss Flora G. Dowler, nutrition consultant, explained what foods should be eaten in what quantities which explanation showed why the schools feed balanced lunches and why it is important.

William P. Cooper, director of the school lunch program in the county, gave a concise, factual account of how the program was set up, organized and developed — a talk which proved of special interest to the visitors and resulted in many questions. The members of the conference were so impressed by this discussion, that it was suggested that Mr. Cooper's address be mimeographed and sent to all school systems in the county for future study.

The concluding speaker was Miss

Local News in Brief

A dance sponsored by Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., will be held in the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Central Fire Company No. 1 was called to North Centre street yesterday morning when the wiring of a car owned by A. L. Berkley, Hyndman, Pa., caught fire due to a short-circuit. Damage was slight.

Ruby M. Adams, director of elementary education in the county, who explained the work to date of the county nutrition group which is planning to expand the scope of the lunch program and turn the project into a community enterprise that will extend right into the homes of parents.

At this point, Superintendent Bennett took charge of a discussion period with the visitors firing questions at Superintendent Kopp, Cooper, Miss Adams and other members of the staff. The questions dealt with practically all phases of the setup including possible future plans and the fact that the maintenance aid furnished by the government enables the schools to sell the lunches at fifteen cents to pupils able to pay and give the food free to pupils without means at the moment.

Entertained at Reception

At 5 o'clock the visitors were entertained at a reception given by Miss Elizabeth Lowndes and Mr. Lowndes at their residence, 27 Washington street. Following this, the group drove to the All Ghan Shrine Country Club where they had a chicken dinner. Other than officials who had attended the afternoon session, guests at the speakers' table included County Commissioner James Holmes, who was referred to as "the father of five and consequently didn't have to be told about the importance of schools," Horace Whitworth, Sr., board of education and attorney to the county commissioners, William A. Gunter, former president of the board of education, and Edward Dashiell, president of the school board.

The concluding event of the day for the visitors was the annual music festival presented by the high schools at Fort Hill high school where the guests were given a musical respite from conference affairs. The meeting will resume this morning at 9:30 o'clock with a conference on pupil transportation at the administration building.

Giant Flying Boats Doomed As Speedier Land-Based Air Liners Take Control of Sky

By JOSEPH A. BORS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The colorful but clumsy and slow flying boat is rapidly becoming extinct as a passenger plane, thus bringing to a close another era in American aviation.

Before the end of this year airline officials predict that the last of the winged ships will have been replaced by speedy, long-range land planes capable of overwater hops with heavy loads.

The flying boat is a "dead duck," but it wrote a brilliant chapter in American aviation prior and during World War II.

Pan American Airways still is using flying boats on the trans-Pacific run, but these will be replaced shortly by a fleet of Constellations.

Transcontinental and Western Airways, American and United Airlines also are acquiring fleets of four-motored land planes for trans-oceanic service.

The transition was speeded up by the war, when the army and navy were forced to speed up development of long-range land planes to link the world's far-flung battlefields.

Flying boats played an important part in the Pacific war in the early days before huge land planes were available and before the United States captured bases.

They carried vital equipment and personnel over vast distances and were able to land in lagoons near islands long before airfields were completed for land planes.

These flying ships also saved lives of countless aviators who crash-landed at sea, and they even were used for bombing and strafing in the Pacific conflict.

Pan American opened its first overwater schedule with a six-passenger flying boat on a run between Key West, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, in October, 1927.

This type of craft reached its peace-time peak just before the war, when planes such as the China Clipper and the Yankee Clipper roared from the Pacific coast to the Far East.

However, the giant planes carried only twenty to twenty-seven passengers, depending on the length of the hop, the longest of which was between the west coast and Honolulu, 2,400 miles.

The future of land planes was indicated recently when a B-29 bomber flew non-stop more than 8,000 miles from Guam to Washington, D. C.

A commercial version of the B-29 has been ordered by Pan American. It will be known as the Stratocruiser and will carry 80 passengers.

Constellations will be used by Pan American when it opens its round-the-world schedule in a few weeks.

The army's transport command demonstrated the feasability of world-wide land plane service a few months ago by inaugurating six-day flights out of the nation's capital.

The day of the flying boat virtually is over, but most air enthusiasts agree it paved the way for present schedules on flights that soon will become routine world sky cruises.

Herbert C. Dellinger Files Appeal In Case Of Pocket-picking

Herbert C. Dellinger, 309 Cecelia street, sentenced to sixty days in the county jail by Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, early this week, on a charge of larceny has taken an appeal and was released from jail under bond of $200.

Dellinger entered a plea of guilty in trial magistrates court and admitted he took from a sleeping veteran, a railroad ticket, which he returned for cash at the ticket office. Dellinger told the court he had been drinking and that he would stay out of trouble.

Magistrate Perdew, at the time, said the nature of the theft, that of picking a man's pocket, and the cashing of the ticket showed the crime was premeditated and planned.

MELBOURNE, Australia, (AP)—Acclaimed recently as probably the oldest working horse in the world, Nigger, has died at 51. Owned by John Croker of Footeray, Nigger was still doing light work, but was too slow in getting out of the road of a bus.

Big Diamond Year

JOHANNESBURG, (AP) — A new record in 1946 for the South African diamond industry, which last year produced approximately $108,000,000, is predicted by authoritative sources in the Union's second largest mineral interest.

Burglar Takes Second Helping

NEWARK, N. J., (AP) — Business didn't interfere with pleasure when a burglar broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Armando, 215 Rose street, while they were at a movie.

After ransacking the house and taking $155 in cash and a wrist watch valued at $60, the thief took time out to down nearly a pound of ham and tomatoes.

Worse Than Tame Bores?

BIALYSTOK, Poland (AP)—Wild boars are giving Polish peasants who reside near large forests a continual headache. The farmers say their fields are constantly devastated by hordes of the animals.

Silence Is Golden Anniversary for Him

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—Oscar A. Minot, 72, who has completed fifty years as a barber feels that conversation is not an essential part of his trade. Says he:

"I never inflict my views on a customer. Unless he wants to talk I work in silence."

Still the Duration

JOHANNESBURG, (AP) — The question of when the war is going to end is agitating South Africa. Many contracts contained provisos "for the duration" and similar phrases, and nobody knows what to do about them. Questioned in the House of Assembly, Prime Minister Gen. Smuts said it was very complicated and a matter for international action.

—President Andrew Johnson was christened Andrew Jackson Johnson.

BRAZIL, Ind., (AP) — Raeburn Dickerson, manager of a department store, displayed several pairs of high heel, button top ladies' shoes, popular in the gay 'Nineties, as a promotion stunt. Herbert C. Dellinger Files Appeal In Case Of Pocket-picking

Herbert C. Dellinger, 309 Cecelia street, sentenced to sixty days in the county jail by Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, early this week, on a charge of larceny has taken an appeal and was released from jail under bond of $200.

Dellinger entered a plea of guilty in trial magistrates court and admitted he took from a sleeping veteran, a railroad ticket, which he returned for cash at the ticket office. Dellinger told the court he had been drinking and that he would stay out of trouble.

Magistrate Perdew, at the time, said the nature of the theft, that of picking a man's pocket, and the cashing of the ticket showed the crime was premeditated and planned.

McQuade Will Referee Fights Tuesday Night

Ed Brockman Suffers Nervous Breakdown; Ricker Pairs Hare And Torchy in Six Rounder

Cumberland boxing fans will see a new referee in action at the state armory next Tuesday night when "Buddy" McQuade works the bouts in Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker's second professional show of the season.

Ricker was advised last night by Joseph M. Kelly, secretary of the Maryland State Athletic Commission, that McQuade will take the place of Ed Brockman, veteran official, who handled last month's bouts here between Sammy Adragna and Frankie Gillen, Mimi Adragna and Jimmie Ricco and Johnny Booth and Delton Parker.

Brockman Is Ill

In his communication to the Cumberland Athletic Club matchmaker, Kelley wrote:

"I am sorry I will not be able to send Ed Brockman. He had a nervous breakdown and I'm afraid he will not be able to referee for me for some time to come.

"I will send "Buddy" McQuade in his place. He is a swell fellow and incidentally a first class thoroughly experienced referee. I know you will like him."

McQuade's appearance will mark the first time in twenty years that a local professional show will carry on without the services of Brockman or Charley Short as the third man in the ring. Short succeeded the late Chris Himmler after the latter retired as referee in the early 1920s.

Torchy To Meet Hare

Ricker completed his third bout of the program yesterday when he matched "Young" Torchy, of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., with Tommy Hare, of Meyersdale, Pa., for a six-round preliminary. Hare is managed by Ernie Nightengale, of Garrett, Pa., who managed the left-hooking Charley Brant of Somerset, Pa., during the latter's climb up the fistic ladder.

In the feature ten-rounder Lee Sheppard, of Cleveland, will collide with Juan Carrero, Puerto Rican light-weight, fighting out of New York, while in the eight-round semi-final, Warren Peterson, ETO light heavyweight champion, from New York, will face Ira Hughes, Pittsburgh Negro.

A five and four-rounder will be added to complete the card. Tuesday's show will get under way at 8 p. m.

WILL FIGHT HERE

Dodgers' Manager And Special Guard Acquitted by Jury

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP) — Leo "Lippy" Durocher, 39-year-old manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and hero to thousands of Flatbush sport fans, faced an all-male jury today and heard himself acquitted of a charge of second degree assault against a youthful heckler.

The verdict, ending a four-day trial in Kings County Court, also resulted in acquittal for Durocher's co-defendant, Joseph Moore, 50, a special guard at Ebbets field.

They were accused of beating John Christian, 23-year-old war veteran, who said in court that he was known throughout Brooklyn as the Dodgers' loudest critic.

If convicted of the charge—a felony—Durocher would have faced a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

Judge Louis Goldstein, who termed the verdict "a fair and just one," told the jury: "I am glad for the sake of the Brooklyn baseball team that their manager has been vindicated and that no discredit has been placed upon the great American game."

The jury was out thirty-eight minutes. Later the jurors told reporters that only one ballot was needed.

According to testimony at the trial, a civil action brought by Christian against Durocher had been settled out of court for $6,750. The Dodger manager said he paid the money because the Brooklyn club had told him it would not renew his contract unless the suit was settled.

Christian charged that Durocher and Moore beat him last June 9 following a game at Ebbets field between Brooklyn and Philadelphia. He said they did so because he had heckled the Brooklyn players.

Durocher told the jury that he "never put a finger" on Christian. The manager said Christian "fell down" after emerging hastily from a conference with Durocher and Moore beneath the grandstand.

Centerville Wins Over Queen City

Centerville's Reds came to town yesterday and took the measure of the Queen City Brewers into camp by the score of 9 to 1 in a practice game between Bi-State League teams on Stitcher field.

Bob Cook, Paul Clapper and Duckworth, who divided the pitching honors for the 1945 Pen-Mar League champions, let the home team down with five hits and fanned eleven in the six-inning contest. Queen City scored its lone run in the final frame on hits by Lou Riehl and Bill Stevenson.

Cook twirled hitless and runless ball for two frames and struck out six. Clapper yielded one hit and whiffed three while Duckworth gave up four hits and one run and had two strikeouts in the last two stanzas.

The Reds combed the offerings of Stitcher and "Lefty" Lee for thirteen hits. The veteran "Pete" Cook smashed a homer with Deremer aboard in the third and also banged out a single; Pete Deremer collected a double and two singles, Roy Mickey, two doubles, and Clapper, a double and one-base knock.

The victory enabled Centerville to conclude its pre-league series of practice games with a record of four straight wins. The Reds previously defeated the Eagles, twice, and Fulton Myers Post, once. Score by innings:

CENTERVILLE	103 401—9 13 0

Lord Boswell Is Favorite To Win Kentucky Derby

Defeats Pellicle by Neck in Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 25, (AP)—Lord Boswell came back to his home grounds for the first time as a race-horse today and within shouting distance of his birth place settled the question as to just who is the horse to beat in the Kentucky Derby.

The stretch-stepping son of the blue grass horse country came from far back in the stretch to win the Blue Grass Stables by a neck and thereby moved up into the favorite's spot for the $100,000 run for the roses May 4.

But while this left cosmetics queen Mrs. Elizabeth Graham with the solid one-two punch for the derby in Lord Boswell and Knockdown, it wasn't all pleasant for her Maine Change Farm fortunes. Boswell's well-touted running mate and champion two-year-old colt of last season, Star Pilot, was officially declared out of the derby.

The son of Sickle, winner of $187,385 in his short racing career, hasn't been on the ball in his training and Leslie Combs II, who watches over Mrs. Graham's racers, said he would not go to the post for Col. Matt Winn's big show.

Coming back to the races for his first start since he wound up his juvenile galloping by winning four straight last November, Lord Boswell not only whipped six other Derby hopefuls, but had to do it the hard way all the way through this mile-and-an-eighth meander.

Brilliantly piloted by Eddie Arcaro, who will be steering him, too, in the derby, Lord Boswell was all but left at the post getting away last in the field of eight, then had to come the overland route and circle wide around the field to overhaul the leaders, close a seven-length gap in the last three quarters and poke his neck in front. Right behind, in a full drive, was Pellicle, the hope of tobacco grower Hal Price Headley to break his derby jinx.

In third place 2½ lengths back, was In Earnest, candidate of Warren Wright for his third Derby win.

Curtis "Red" Portmess, 146, Cumberland, making his debut as a professional, was so badly beaten by Bob Shannon, 145, Negro, of Baltimore, in the third round of a four round match that the former's seconds tossed in the towel. Portmess floored Shannon in the first round but took a terrific beating thereafter.

Tommy Biesel, 129, formerly of Connellsville, Pa., but now of Cumberland, lost on a TKO in the first round of a scheduled four-rounder with Bill Swoboda, 126, Baltimore, when he suffered a bad gash near his eye after colliding with his opponent. The referee stopped the bout despite protests by Biesel's handlers.

In the eighth-round main go, Charley Crump, 190, Chicago, won all the way from Jim Schwemmer, 195, Baltimore.

Mike Yukas, 138, Baltimore, decisioned Melvin Wade, 142, Baltimore, in six and Jackie Williams, 158, Washington, knocked out Tommy Porter, 161, Baltimore, in the second round.

McQuade Will Referee Fights Tuesday Night

Ed Brockman Suffers Nervous Breakdown; Ricker Pairs Hare And Torchy in Six Rounder

Cumberland boxing fans will see a new referee in action at the state armory next Tuesday night when "Buddy" McQuade works the bouts in Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker's second professional show of the season.

Ricker was advised last night by Joseph M. Kelly, secretary of the Maryland State Athletic Commission, that McQuade will take the place of Ed Brockman, veteran official, who handled last month's bouts here between Sammy Adragna and Frankie Gillen, Mimi Adragna and Jimmie Ricco and Johnny Booth and Delton Parker.

Brockman Is Ill

In his communication to the Cumberland Athletic Club matchmaker, Kelley wrote:

"I am sorry I will not be able to send Ed Brockman. He had a nervous breakdown and I'm afraid he will not be able to referee for me for some time to come.

"I will send "Buddy" McQuade in his place. He is a swell fellow and incidentally a first class thoroughly experienced referee. I know you will like him."

McQuade's appearance will mark the first time in twenty years that a local professional show will carry on without the services of Brockman or Charley Short as the third man in the ring. Short succeeded the late Chris Himmler after the latter retired as referee in the early 1920s.

Torchy To Meet Hare

Ricker completed his third bout of the program yesterday when he matched "Young" Torchy, of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., with Tommy Hare, of Meyersdale, Pa., for a six-round preliminary. Hare is managed by Ernie Nightengale, of Garrett, Pa., who managed the left-hooking Charley Brant of Somerset, Pa., during the latter's climb up the fistic ladder.

In the feature ten-rounder Lee Sheppard, of Cleveland, will collide with Juan Carrero, Puerto Rican light-weight, fighting out of New York, while in the eight-round semi-final, Warren Peterson, ETO light heavyweight champion, from New York, will face Ira Hughes, Pittsburgh Negro.

WILL FIGHT HERE

Dodgers' Manager And Special Guard Acquitted by Jury

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP) — Leo "Lippy" Durocher, 39-year-old manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and hero to thousands of Flatbush sport fans, faced an all-male jury today and heard himself acquitted of a charge of second degree assault against a youthful heckler.

The verdict, ending a four-day trial in Kings County Court, also resulted in acquittal for Durocher's co-defendant, Joseph Moore, 50, a special guard at Ebbets field.

They were accused of beating John Christian, 23-year-old war veteran, who said in court that he was known throughout Brooklyn as the Dodgers' loudest critic.

If convicted of the charge—a felony—Durocher would have faced a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

Judge Louis Goldstein, who termed the verdict "a fair and just one," told the jury: "I am glad for the sake of the Brooklyn baseball team that their manager has been vindicated and that no discredit has been placed upon the great American game."

The jury was out thirty-eight minutes. Later the jurors told reporters that only one ballot was needed.

According to testimony at the trial, a civil action brought by Christian against Durocher had been settled out of court for $6,750. The Dodger manager said he paid the money because the Brooklyn club had told him it would not renew his contract unless the suit was settled.

Christian charged that Durocher and Moore beat him last June 9 following a game at Ebbets field between Brooklyn and Philadelphia. He said they did so because he had heckled the Brooklyn players.

Durocher told the jury that he "never put a finger" on Christian. The manager said Christian "fell down" after emerging hastily from a conference with Durocher and Moore beneath the grandstand.

Centerville Wins Over Queen City

Centerville's Reds came to town yesterday and took the measure of the Queen City Brewers into camp by the score of 9 to 1 in a practice game between Bi-State League teams on Stitcher field.

Bob Cook, Paul Clapper and Duckworth, who divided the pitching honors for the 1945 Pen-Mar League champions, let the home team down with five hits and fanned eleven in the six-inning contest. Queen City scored its lone run in the final frame on hits by Lou Riehl and Bill Stevenson.

Cook twirled hitless and runless ball for two frames and struck out six. Clapper yielded one hit and whiffed three while Duckworth gave up four hits and one run and had two strikeouts in the last two stanzas.

The Reds combed the offerings of Stitcher and "Lefty" Lee for thirteen hits. The veteran "Pete" Cook smashed a homer with Deremer aboard in the third and also banged out a single; Pete Deremer collected a double and two singles, Roy Mickey, two doubles, and Clapper, a double and one-base knock.

The victory enabled Centerville to conclude its pre-league series of practice games with a record of four straight wins. The Reds previously defeated the Eagles, twice, and Fulton Myers Post, once. Score by innings:

Lord Boswell Is Favorite To Win Kentucky Derby

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 25. (AP)—Lord Boswell came back to his home grounds for the first time as a race-horse today and within shouting distance of his birth place settled the question as to just who is the horse to beat in the Kentucky Derby.

The stretch-stepping son of the blue grass horse country came from far back in the stretch to win the Blue Grass Stables by a neck and thereby moved up into the favorite's spot for the $100,000 run for the roses May 4.

But while this left cosmetics queen Mrs. Elizabeth Graham with the solid one-two punch for the derby in Lord Boswell and Knockdown, it wasn't all pleasant for her Maine Change Farm fortunes. Boswell's well-touted running mate and champion two-year-old colt of last season, Star Pilot, was officially declared out of the derby.

The son of Sickle, winner of $187,385 in his short racing career, hasn't been on the ball in his training and Leslie Combs II, who watches over Mrs. Graham's racers, said he would not go to the post for Col. Matt Winn's big show.

Coming back to the races for his first start since he wound up his juvenile galloping by winning four straight last November, Lord Boswell not only whipped six other Derby hopefuls, but had to do it the hard way all the way through this mile-and-an-eighth meander.

Brilliantly piloted by Eddie Arcaro, who will be steering him, too, in the derby, Lord Boswell was all but left at the post getting away last in the field of eight, then had to come the overland route and circle wide around the field to overhaul the leaders, close a seven-length gap in the last three quarters and poke his neck in front. Right behind, in a full drive, was Pellicle, the hope of tobacco grower Hal Price Headley to break his derby jinx.

In third place 2½ lengths back, was In Earnest, candidate of Warren Wright for his third Derby win.

Portmess Beaten In Debut as Pro

HAGERSTOWN, April 25—Two Cumberland boxers suffered defeats via the technical knockout route here tonight.

Curtis "Red" Portmess, 146, Cumberland, making his debut as a professional, was so badly beaten by Bob Shannon, 145, Negro, of Baltimore, in the third round of a four round match that the former's seconds tossed in the towel. Portmess floored Shannon in the first round but took a terrific beating thereafter.

Tommy Biesel, 129, formerly of Connellsville, Pa., but now of Cumberland, lost on a TKO in the first round of a scheduled four-rounder with Bill Swoboda, 126, Baltimore, when he suffered a bad gash near his eye after colliding with his opponent. The referee stopped the bout despite protests by Biesel's handlers.

Ralph Kiner Hits 450-foot Homer As Pirates Win

Pittsburgh Snaps Cards' Seven-Game Winning Streak, 5-3

PITTSBURGH, April 25 (AP)—Led by young Ralph Kiner's long home run belt, the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the St. Louis Cardinals their first defeat in eight games today, 5 to 3, and knocked them out of a first place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers, also winners of seven consecutive contests, remained in first place as rain forced a postponement of their game at Philadelphia.

Kiner drove in the Bucs' first run in the first inning and then hammered out a tremendous home in the third that carried 450 feet, clearing the scoreboard in leftfield. Maurice Van Robays, who had doubled, was aboard. Box:

Three Cub miscues gave the Reds as many unearned markers in the seventh inning and chased Cub starter Hank Borowy on the short end of a 6-4 score. Reliefer Johnny Hetki, second of three Redleg hurlers, was the winner. Box:

Hurdler To Defend Title

PHILADELPHIA, April 25. (AP)—The Penn Relays, which relied heavily upon servicemen and high school athletes from Philadelphia and its suburbs to maintain the traditional figures of 3,000 entries from 500 schools, again become a national institution tomorrow.

The fifty-second of a series of carnivals which began in 1895 has drawn from the midwest, south, southwest and even Canada, Hawaii and Puerto Rico for its eleven special events, nine college "American championship" relays and its countless minor events which require the better part of two days.

There will be only one individual champion from 1945 defending his laurels. He is Bernie Conor, captain of the West Point track team who won the 400-meter hurdles last year.

New Duckpin Is Designed

By C. V. BURNS

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, has concluded one of the most successful boxing promotion seasons in the history of the amateur sport here and congratulations to Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, matchmaker, and Phil Fleming, chairman, and member of his committee, are in order.

Reviving the sport here last October after it had been dormant for five years, the Legionnaires presented shows on eight nights over a period of five and a half months and the turnstiles clicked to the tune of 3,564 paid admissions and total gross gate of $4,224.94.

The Legion tried something that has never been done before when it presented shows on three successive Monday nights this month and attracted 1,804 cash customers who paid $1,585.14 to see the Simon pures throw leather. The show on the third night was the season's peak for attendance, a total of 734 paying patrons witnessing the card.

Here's the Legion's financial report on amateur shows for the 1945-46 season:

Date	Paid	Gross
Oct. 29-30	500	$768.40
Dec. 3	316	466.80
Jan. 14	394	587.40
Feb. 18	550	817.20
April 1	342	306.73
April 8	728	627.62
April 15	734	650.79
Totals	3,564	$4,224.94

—o—

A check of the records shows that a total of seventy-eight bouts were presented on the eight nights, an average of almost ten matches a show. During the season Fort Cumberland Post's boxing committee registered a total of forty-six boys with the Amateur Athletic Union. This means that the Legion obtained amateur membership cards for each of the forty-six boys. These cards cost twenty-five cents each and entitle the holders to participate in amateur shows staged within the jurisdiction of the South Atlantic Association for a period of one year.

There will be no more Legion shows here until Maryland Department convention time in August and here's hoping the veterans' organization will continue its success next season as it has in the past.

West Virginia's trout season is scheduled to open tomorrow and the official starting time is 6 a. m., instead of midnight as in former years. The season extends through July 15.

The reason for setting back the official opening hour is because farmers and landowners complained that numerous makeshift camps were established by fishermen on the banks of streams. Some campers wandered about in the early dawn to the detriment of farmers' property, occasionally mistaking fences for firewood.

In acquiescing to these complaints, the state conservation commission moved up the starting hour in an effort to discourage early risers.

Judging from the scholastic baseball box scores a pitcher named JUDY seems to be providing all the early season PUNCH for the Fort Hill high school Sentinels.

In the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association alone thirty new squads are participating in the 92-team record-setting campaign.

West Virginia has assigned eighty schoolboy teams to eight regions, each of which will send a representative to the second annual state tournament in Charleston, May 30-June 1.

Teams from nearby West Virginia counties are listed in Region No. 4 with Jim Clara, of Terra Alta, as the director. Moorefield, Petersburg and Circleville are in Region No. 4 along with Terra Alta, Newburg, Beverly, Masontown, Aurora, Arthurdale and Belington.

Bowling alley proprietors who were depending on the new mechanical pin-setter to solve the pinboy problem have learned that the new device cannot handle duckpins.

However, a newly designed duckpin which equipment manufacturers have been asked to produce in limited quantities for experimental purposes is expected to be ready for extensive competitive tests within a month or two.

The new pin, designed at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, is identical to the present pin in height, in maximum width at the top and the base, and over-all weight.

It features a radical shift of weight to the bottom third of the pin, a one-inch drop of the belly's maximum width, which is the point of contact for the ball, and a one-quarter inch increase in the belly's maximum diameter. The new pin figures to increase scores 25 to 40 pins per game.

The activator that set the experiment in motion was the desire on the part of bowling alley operators to utilize mechanical pin-setters.

According to those who have seen the pins in use, it answers the need. They report its flying propensities are materially less; that it consistently confines itself to the pin-bed and pit (the machine's scope), and that it is a much higher scoring pin than the present duckpin.

Final judgment, however, is being reserved until far more extensive tryouts have been completed.

Ralph Kiner Hits 450-foot Homer As Pirates Win

Pittsburgh Snaps Cards' Seven-Game Winning Streak, 5-3

PITTSBURGH, April 25 (AP)—Led by young Ralph Kiner's long home run belt, the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the St. Louis Cardinals their first defeat in eight games today, 5 to 3, and knocked them out of a first place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers, also winners of seven consecutive contests, remained in first place as rain forced a postponement of their game at Philadelphia.

Kiner drove in the Bucs' first run in the first inning and then hammered out a tremendous home in the third that carried 450 feet, clearing the scoreboard in leftfield. Maurice Van Robays, who had doubled, was aboard. Box:

REDS STOP CUBS

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds squelched their 1945 nemesis, the Chicago Cubs, for the first time in four 1946 meetings, but needed a fielding blow-up by the Bruins for a 7-5 decision before 9,314 shivering fans at today's opener of a two-game series.

Three Cub miscues gave the Reds as many unearned markers in the seventh inning and chased Cub starter Hank Borowy on the short end of a 6-4 score. Reliefer Johnny Hetki, second of three Redleg hurlers, was the winner. Box:

Hopp was hit by one of Ken Trinkle's pitches as the last frame opened, and raced all the way to third when Trinkle threw wildly to first on Tommy Holmes's sacrifice bunt. Box:

Hurdler To Defend Title

PHILADELPHIA, April 25. (AP)—The Penn Relays, which relied heavily upon servicemen and high school athletes from Philadelphia and its suburbs to maintain the traditional figures of 3,000 entries from 500 schools, again become a national institution tomorrow.

The fifty-second of a series of carnivals which began in 1895 has drawn from the midwest, south, southwest and even Canada, Hawaii and Puerto Rico for its eleven special events, nine college "American championship" relays and its countless minor events which require the better part of two days.

There will be only one individual champion from 1945 defending his laurels. He is Bernie Conor, captain of the West Point track team who won the 400-meter hurdles last year.

New Duckpin Is Designed

By C. V. BURNS

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, has concluded one of the most successful boxing promotion seasons in the history of the amateur sport here and congratulations to Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, matchmaker, and Phil Fleming, chairman, and member of his committee, are in order.

Reviving the sport here last October after it had been dormant for five years, the Legionnaires presented shows on eight nights over a period of five and a half months and the turnstiles clicked to the tune of 3,564 paid admissions and total gross gate of $4,224.94.

The Legion tried something that has never been done before when it presented shows on three successive Monday nights this month and attracted 1,804 cash customers who paid $1,585.14 to see the Simon pures throw leather. The show on the third night was the season's peak for attendance, a total of 734 paying patrons witnessing the card.

Here's the Legion's financial report on amateur shows for the 1945-46 season:

Date	Paid	Gross
Oct. 29-30	500	$768.40
Dec. 3	316	466.80
Jan. 14	394	587.40
Feb. 18	550	817.20
April 1	342	306.73
April 8	728	627.62
April 15	734	650.79

A check of the records shows that a total of seventy-eight bouts were presented on the eight nights, an average of almost ten matches a show. During the season Fort Cumberland Post's boxing committee registered a total of forty-six boys with the Amateur Athletic Union. This means that the Legion obtained amateur membership cards for each of the forty-six boys. These cards cost twenty-five cents each and entitle the holders to participate in amateur shows staged within the jurisdiction of the South Atlantic Association for a period of one year.

There will be no more Legion shows here until Maryland Department convention time in August and here's hoping the veterans' organization will continue its success next season as it has in the past.

West Virginia's trout season is scheduled to open tomorrow and the official starting time is 6 a. m., instead of midnight as in former years. The season extends through July 15.

The reason for setting back the official opening hour is because farmers and landowners complained that numerous makeshift camps were established by fishermen on the banks of streams. Some campers wandered about in the early dawn to the detriment of farmers' property, occasionally mistaking fences for firewood.

In acquiescing to these complaints, the state conservation commission moved up the starting hour in an effort to discourage early risers.

Judging from the scholastic baseball box scores a pitcher named JUDY seems to be providing all the early season PUNCH for the Fort Hill high school Sentinels.

High school baseball is booming in both West Virginia and Pennsylvania this year, according to reports from the Mountain and Keystone states.

In the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association alone thirty new squads are participating in the 92-team record-setting campaign.

West Virginia has assigned eighty schoolboy teams to eight regions, each of which will send a representative to the second annual state tournament in Charleston, May 30-June 1.

Teams from nearby West Virginia counties are listed in Region No. 4 with Jim Clara, of Terra Alta, as the director. Moorefield, Petersburg and Circleville are in Region No. 4 along with Terra Alta, Newburg, Beverly, Masontown, Aurora, Arthurdale and Belington.

Bowling alley proprietors who were depending on the new mechanical pin-setter to solve the pinboy problem have learned that the new device cannot handle duckpins.

However, a newly designed duckpin which equipment manufacturers have been asked to produce in limited quantities for experimental purposes is expected to be ready for extensive competitive tests within a month or two.

The new pin, designed at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, is identical to the present pin in height, in maximum width at the top and the base, and over-all weight.

It features a radical shift of weight to the bottom third of the pin, a one-inch drop of the belly's maximum width, which is the point of contact for the ball, and a one-quarter inch increase in the belly's maximum diameter. The new pin figures to increase scores 25 to 40 pins per game.

The activator that set the experiment in motion was the desire on the part of bowling alley operators to utilize mechanical pin-setters.

According to those who have seen the pins in use, it answers the need. They report its flying propensities are materially less; that it consistently confines itself to the pinbed and pit (the machine's scope), and that it is a much higher scoring pin than the present duckpin.

Final judgment, however, is being reserved until far more extensive tryouts have been completed.

Kate Smith Will Mark Birthdays Tonight on Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Kate Smith is celebrating in her CBS show at 8:30 Friday night. It is to mark her fifteenth radio anniversary, the date of which is May 1—also her birthday. The celebration takes place ahead of time because her broadcast date does not fall on the event.

She will have something in the way of observation, such as a musical glance in retrospect. She plans to do the songs of her first broadcast, including "When the moon—"

Humberto Zavala and Charlie Fusari are the fighters for description via the ABC bout broadcast at 10. They are welterweights.

Tommy Riggs and his voice-created Betty Lou, not long out of the service and who are to take over the Ginny Simms show of CBS for the summer, is to make the first of two preview guest appearances at 7:30.

The first of two description broadcasts of the Penn relays will come on CBS at 4:45.

Some finales are due on CBS: the half hour at 11, to be occupied next week by Arthur Godfrey (it will be 11 Daylight Time or 10 Standard Time) Bid Goodbye to Amada and "Second Husband"; at 9 comes the last of Holiday and Company, the former program, "It Pays to be Ignorant," to return next week.

A couple of postponed discussion periods are back on the MBS schedule, having been called off last week for specials. They are: 7:15 Ivan D. Carson, of OPA, on veterans' housing; 10 forum on "Influence of Comics on Children."

"Meet the Press" of MBS at 10:30 is questioning Paul Porter, head of OPA.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband and beloved father, William R. Lantz who was killed in action in Germany one year ago today April 26, 1945.

We have lost our soul's companion,
A life linked with our own,
And day by day we miss him more,
As we walk through life alone.
Enshrined within our memory
Are fondest thoughts of you.
Your kindly eyes, your loving smile,
Your heart so good and true,
And time will never, never dim
Our inmost heart's regret
At loss of you, my dearest,
And we never will forget.

Mrs. William Lantz and children

4-26-1t-N

In loving memory of my dear brother-in-law, William R. Lantz, who gave his life in Germany one year ago today, April 26, 1945.

My thoughts cannot express how I miss you,
My heart cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss you,
In our lonely home today.
Deep in my heart lies a picture of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it,
Because he was of the best.
Loving, kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and true in his heart and mind.
Beautiful memories he leaves behind.

Mae Rice.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband and beloved father, William R. Lantz who was killed in action in Germany one year ago today April 26, 1945.

We have lost our soul's companion,
A life linked with our own,
And day by day we miss him more,
As we walk through life alone.
Enshrined within our memory
Are fondest thoughts of you.
Your kindly eyes, your loving smile,
Your heart so good and true.
And time will never, never dim
Our inmost heart's regret
At loss of you, my dearest,
And we never will forget.

Mrs. William Lantz and children
William Jr., Mary and Earl
4-26-1t-N

In loving memory of my dear brother-in-law, William R. Lantz, who gave his life in Germany one year ago today, April 26, 1945.

My thoughts cannot express how I miss you,
My heart cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss you,
In our lonely home today.
Deep in my heart lies a picture of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame I shall keep it,
Because he was of the best.
Loving, kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and true in his heart and mind.
Beautiful memories he leaves behind.

Mae Rice.

Visiting School Heads Impressed By Cafeteria Plan In County System

School Lunch Program Is Considered after Tour of Buildings; Transportation To Be Studied

By JAMES B. CRAIG

Visiting school superintendents from twenty Maryland counties and other guests here for a two-day conference on cafeterias and pupil transportation were conducted on a countywide tour of school cafeterias yesterday and while the visitors admittedly had a "delightful" time exploring the school system's newer, more up-to-date buildings they said later they were especially impressed by the adaption of old buildings to conform with present standards. By this they meant they were impressed by the ingenuity school officials had employed in transforming old basements, coal bins and storerooms into attractive, airy cafeterias where it is a pleasure to eat.

As Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, explained, "Allegany county was selected for this conference because of the general excellence of its school cafeteria system and these people are here to observe just how Allegany county did it." Appreciating this fact, Superintendent Charles L. Kopp made every effort possible to see that the visitors saw every type of building in the system including the newest and the oldest.

This reporter was privileged to make the tour of the county with group six of the party which included Kopp, Pullen, Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the state board of education, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers college, Mrs. Gertrude Bowie, assistant state supervisor of home economics for the state board of education, Nicholas Orem, of the state board of education, Franklin D. Day, Queen Anne's county superintendent, and James M. Bennett, Wicomico county superintendent.

Fort Hill First Stop

The first stop for this particular group was Fort Hill high school where they were scheduled to inspect the cafeteria. The group inspected the cafeteria and also most of the school as well since the lure of open classrooms filled with students doing drafting and working on elaborate precision machines proved too great for the visitors. Mr. Lowndes, who was obviously having a delightful time, roamed from classroom to classroom talking to students and other members of the group did likewise. Eventually they reached the cafeteria where Mrs. George Legge explained that the school was now serving approximately 1,300 plate lunches. The

Rooms Are Sought For Vets Attending Ridgeley School

A move to find living quarters in Ridgeley, W. Va., for war veterans attending the Morgan Vocational Training school there was announced last night by William L. Dailey, adjutant of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley.

Dailey said that any home owner in the Ridgeley area who has a room or rooms to rent should contact him or Paul K. Morgan, operator of the school.

Available rooms are to be used by veterans attending the training school, many of whom are disabled from service overseas, according to Dailey, who said Morgan wants to house as many as possible as close to the school as possible so that it will be more convenient for them.

Morgan's school, the only one of its kind in West Virginia at the present time, is giving vocational instruction to West Virginia war veterans as well as to veterans from Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Average enrollment at the school is one year and, in many cases from two to three years, Dailey said Morgan told him in urging that families with vacant rooms offer them for rent to veterans attending the school.

Dailey can be contacted at Ridgeley 1712-W and Morgan can be reached at Ridgeley 3987.

New Coaches Are Put into Service By Bus Company

The first three of a Blue Ridge Transportation Company order of ten deluxe and completely modern interurban coaches arrived early yesterday and went into service out of Hagerstown for the first time last night.

By the end of this week the ten buses, ordered in 1943 and representing an investment of over $202,000, will have been delivered and will be operating through this city on Blue Ridge routes, according to bus company officials.

The new buses, recognizable by their trim which is slightly different from the familiar Blue Ridge pattern on the older coaches, are thirty-seven-passenger PCFs.

Innovations and improvements designed for both passenger and driver comfort and convenience have been incorporated in the new coaches. They feature efficient airconditioning, a two-foot longer body which provides greater leg room per seat and different spring construction.

One new touch in passenger comfort is provided by the individual light installed directly above each seat in the overhead baggage rack. This light is focused to give a comfortable quantity of light only in the user's lap while the passenger in the adjoining seat may have complete darkness.

Owner of Island In Potomac River Seeks Injunction

Charles Hansel Says He Is Denied Use of Road Leading to Property

Asking an injunction whereby he would be permitted to use a road leading to an island he owns in the north branch of the Potomac river near Rawlings, Charles S. Hansel yesterday filed suit in circuit court against Philip A. Evans who, he said, has taken possession of the land the road crosses and refuses him the right to use it.

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a temporary injunction ordering Evans to refrain from stopping, hindering or interferring with Hansel or his agents in the use of the road. Evans was given until May 10 to show why an injunction such as Hansel asks should not be granted.

Contains Tillable Land

Hansel, through his attorney, Thomas Lohr Richards, said the island contains about eight acres of tillable land on which he has been planting and harvesting farm crops every year since he acquired the property in 1924.

The only means of access to the island is over a "well defined" road from the McMullen highway across the lands now or lately belonging to Estella and Ezra Smith, Hansel asserted, pointing out that he used the road constantly for the past twenty-two years to reach the island and that the previous owners of the island used it for more than twenty years.

Hansel declared that he has a "lawful and a prescriptive right" to use the road.

Although no deed to the land has been filed in the county land records office in Evans's name, Evans has taken possession of the land, probably under a contract of sale, Hansel stated.

Threatened Arrest

On April 22, he added, the defendant stopped the agents of Hansel from using the road to go to the island, and then stopped them again the following day, pointing out no trespassing signs he erected in the road and threatening "forcibly" to stop them and have them arrested if they tried to use the road again.

Hansel declared that he has reason to believe Evans will continue to stop him and his agents from using the road and that there is "imminent danger of a breach of the peace."

Aged Woman Is Taken by Death

Rites for Mrs. Annie Louise Williamson, 98, Are Planned

Mrs. Annie Louise Williamson, 98, widow of Albert G. Williamson, and one of Cumberland's oldest residents, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her niece, Miss S. Margaret Reid, 215 Tilghman street.

Mrs. Williamson, although blind for the past fifteen years, was mentally alert and healthy until about six weeks ago when she suffered a general breakdown which ended in her death here yesterday.

A member of one of the pioneer families of Western Maryland, she was a daughter of Elisha and Sarah Ann Brown Fuller and was born in Garrett county September 21, 1848. She had resided in this city since infancy.

Mrs. Williamson enjoyed reminiscing of events in this area during the War between the States and especially loved to tell of being in the Old Nicholas hotel (now the Windsor) where her father was clerk, when McNeill and his rangers captured Crook and Kelly here.

She was the last surviving member of her immediate family. Among the fourteen nieces and nephews who survive are Mrs. R. Mason Hill, 601 Washington street, and Miss Reid, with whom she had made her home for the past ten years.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Stein funeral home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by the Rev. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist church, of which Mrs. Williamson had been a lifelong member.

Pallbearers will be Edward Cochran, Richard Cochran, John Treiber, Arthur Fuller, Walter Fuller and Perry B. Edmiston. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Creation of Building Fund for Use Of Airport Corporation Approved

Plan To Be Presented to Mayor, City Council for Approval

A supplemental agreement calling for the creation of a building fund for Cumberland Airways, Inc., the West Virginia corporation under which the Cumberland Municipal airport is being operated, was approved last night at a meeting of the municipal airport commission.

The agreement, drawn up by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney and a commission member, at the request of William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, who leased the airport from the city last November 13, calls for the sale by Graham of $50,000 in United States Treasury bonds which he deposited in escrow in the Second National bank after the lease contract was signed.

Proceeds of the sale are to be deposited in the bank in the name of "Cumberland Airways, Inc., Building Fund," and may be withdrawn by the corporation as needed for erection and improvement of buildings at the airport.

Council To Study Plan

The plan will be submitted to the mayor and city council for approval before it is put into effect.

Members of the commission voted to amend the agreement by specifying that cash from the building fund must be withdrawn in separate amounts not exceeding $5,000, and that vouchers for all building costs as that sum is reached must be submitted to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, for auditing and approval before the next $5,000 lot is withdrawn from the account.

The amendment was decided upon to provide the corporation with sufficient working funds to pay immediate bills as necesary without entailing countersigning of each bill as it was presented, and yet to permit the city to keep a check on the type and cost of construction being done at the airport.

Pointing out that all the money to be deposited in the building fund will belong to Graham, since it will be the proceeds from the sale of his own bonds, Edmund S. Burke, commission chairman, proposed that the commission should allow Graham to withdraw funds from the account at will, without requiring audits by the city.

After John A. Chapman, airport manager, said that Graham is willing to have expenditures from the building fund checked by the city, however, the commission decided to have Gibson audit vouchers for each cash lot of $5,000 withdrawn from the account.

The $50,000 worth of bonds was originally deposited in the bank by Graham to cover the erection of suitable buildings at the airport, under his agreement in the lease to spend a minimum of $50,000 in building construction.

Chapman said that the entire amount would be spent within six months if building materials could be obtained, adding that Graham plans to construct a two-story brick administration building with a restaurant, lobby and rest rooms, as well as additional hangars.

Youth Is Burned When Gas Explodes

Earl "Lefty" Bruce, Jr., 15, Roberts place, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for treatment of severe burns of the right arm and slight burns of the legs. His condition was "good."

Young Bruce, a ninth grade student at Allegany high school, was burned while at work at Painter's Amoco gasoline station, Bowling Green. It was believed he spilled gasoline on his clothing as he was filling a gasoline tank and that the gas exploded when he later lighted a cigaret, members of the family said.

George H. Daniels, 31-year-old Celanese worker, was treated in the same hospital at 5:40 p. m. after he ran the point of a screw driver into his right hand while at his home, 619 Baker street. Attaches said the point entered between the third and index finger.

David Garland, 5-year-old son of Ralph Garland, Route 3, was treated in Memorial hospital at 10 p. m. yesterday for burns of the foot suffered, attaches were told, when he placed his foot in hot water.

Walter M. Cornelius, 46, Ridgeley, W. Va., was treated in the same hospital at 10:30 p. m. for lacerations on the right wrist. He told attaches he ran his arm through a window after falling down a flight of steps at his home.

Wesley W. Ayers Is Found Dead In Local Hotel

Wesley Washington Ayers, 45, Conamaugh, Pa., was found dead in his room at the Brunswick hotel, Front street, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated with city and state authorities, said Mr. Ayers died as a result of a cerebral hemmorhage and set the time of death as Monday evening about 10 o'clock.

Dr. Corson said the partially dressed body was found lying face down beside the bed and added that the retired laundry machine operator apparently was preparing to retire when he was stricken.

Police said the body was discovered by hotel employes who reported they investigated after they noticed Mr. Ayers had not been seen for several days. John B. Turano, manager, said the man registered at the local hotel on March 31.

He was identified through efforts of the state's attorney's office who contacted authorities at Conemaugh.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Mary Hissey, Frederick, he is survived by four brothers, Michael and John Ayers, both of Conemaugh, Pa., and Marlow and Charles Hissey, both of Frederick, and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Mauk, Mrs. Mary Ullery and Mrs. Eleanor Steele, all of Conemaugh.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Junior Order U.A.M. of Mansfield.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Katherine Huff, he is survived by two children, James and Ruth Huff, both of Mansfield, and a number of nieces and nephews here.

Spring Festival Is Applauded By Capacity Crowd

Guests From 20 Maryland Counties Attend Annual Program

A capacity crowd including visiting school officials from twenty Maryland counties last night went to Fort Hill high school to attend the annual music festival which has come to be regarded as part of the official trappings of spring in Allegany county, the same as the flowering of the dogwood.

Last night's concert did not disappoint the big audience and the 500 students comprising the combined groups of the high schools who participated in the festival gave it the usual colorful, springlike quality that never fails to please.

The program opened with three orchestra selections conducted by Frank R. Troy, Fort Hill high school. The selections included the Tannhauser march, Song of the Flame by George Gershwin and Stothart and the Gypsy Trial Overture, the latter number which had a happy, carefree swing to it that pleased the audience.

The large Boys glee club conducted by Mrs. Dorothy Sebree Pelling, of the Fort Hill high school faculty, sang "There Is No Death" by O'Hara, "Into the Night," Edwards and "Marching Along Together." Under Mrs. Pelling's capable direction, the glee club was effective, especially in the second number. Robert Heisey was accompanist.

The a cappella choir directed by Miss Dorothy Willison has long been high on the favorite lists of Cumberland music lovers, and this year's choir proved to be as colorful and effective as usual. Miss Willison, who always gets the best effort from her choirs with an economy of motion, last night scored with the audience as she capably directed her group in three numbers, Divine Praise, My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land and Oh, Susanna. The choir was superb in all three numbers.

The Girls Glee Club was directed by Miss Annetta Yates, Beall high school, in "Ho, Mr. Piper," "A Little Song of Life," and "Comin' Through the Rye." This group also proved popular with the audience.

Geraldine Gaston Mann, Flintstone high school, directed the girls' and boys' glee clubs in three numbers, "Prayer from Hansel and Gretel," "Roll de Ol' Chariot Along" and "Donkey Serenade," with the audience pleased by all three numbers.

The final group consisted of three selections by the combined bands directed by Joseph L. Derry, Central high school, playing King Cotton March, selection from "Sweethearts" and the "Crusaders." The band reminded the audience that while it may be spring, football season is really just around the corner.

Valentine To Speak At Court of Honor Planned Here Tuesday

A court of honor for Cumberland district, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Cumberland Free Public Library, Edgar T. Duke, chairman of the district's advancement committee, reported yesterday.

Duke emphasized that both the parents of the boys and the general public are invited to attend the ceremonies.

A feature of the court of honor will be an exhibit of Indian relics by Clarence Valentine, local feed store operator. The local man will also discuss the Indians who inhabited this section. His collection of arrowheads and other relics is considered among the best in this area.

County Officials Donate $50 to Playground Fund

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said yesterday that two more donations, totaling $50, have been made to the city playground fund.

Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes of the county board of commissioners each made personal donations of $25.

Federal Nutrition Unit's Office Will Be in City Hall

Personnel of U. S. Public Health Service Group Arrives Here

An administrative and professional office for the nutrition unit of the United States Public Health Service which arrived here yesterday afternoon will be set up in the basement of city hall, Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Personnel of the unit, headed by Dr. John W. Smillie, assistant surgeon and acting officer in charge, includes Miss Dolores Howley, nurse, and Miss Mary Brakel, nutritionist. They arrived here yesterday afternoon by automobile from Albany, Ga., where they have been conducting a nutrition demonstration and survey for the past six months.

A chemist is expected to arrive here after the first of next month to work with the unit. Laboratory work will be done in the Cumberland branch laboratory of the state department of health, on the third floor of the Public Safety building, Dr. Franklin said.

Office and laboratory equipment for the unit arrived here by truck from Washington, D. C. yesterday.

The purpose of the unit will be to make surveys of different economic groups in the Cumberland area and in adjacent sections of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, to discover any nutritional defects which may exist and to arrange for educational programs regarding the standards of nutrition which should be maintained.

The unit will remain in this area for at least a year, Dr. Franklin said. Funds for nutrition demonstration units were appropriated by Congress last year.

C of C Directors May Make Drive For Clean Streets

Discussing the condition of streets and sidewalks in the central business section particularly with regard to the damage done and eye injuries caused on windy days when dust, dirt, cinders and grit are blown about, chamber of commerce directors last night looked toward remedial measures.

Flushing the area with the fire hose, stricter enforcemnt of the sidewalk ordinance and other remedies were discussed, but it was decided to ask the Civic Improvement committee to study the subject and make a report for action.

A resolution was unanimously adopted requesting the Industrial committee to make a survey of cities of comparable size with the object of furthering a uniform policy on taxation of personal property used for business and industrial purposes in Cumberland.

Another resolution, also unanimously adopted, urged Rep. J. Glenn Beall to continue his efforts to get the approval of army engineers on the Cumberland flood control project and favorable action thereon by the Flood Control committee of the House of Representatives.

The April report of the United States Employment Service showed a registration of 3,898, of which 2,928 were men and 970 women, with 357 placements. Approximately 2,000 are ex-servicemen.

A report on the exploration of coal seams in the Creek section showed the completion of twenty-one holes and two in progress. One of these is 3.1 miles northwest of Kitzmiller and the other near the Mount Zion school 3.6 miles north of Kitzmiller. Both are on the south east side of Backbone mountain. A total of 18,588 feet of holes has been drilled since this work was begun.

Absolute Divorce Granted by Judge To O. S. Bosley

In an opinion handed down in circuit court by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, an absolute divorce has been granted Oliver S. Bosley, 158 Frederick street, a B. and O. employe, from Mrs. Laura Mae Bosley.

Bosley filed suit for partial divorce August 23, 1945, saying his wife deserted him three days before. A short time later Mrs. Bosley filed a cross-bill of complaint charging her husband with deserting her June 1, 1945.

A hearing subsequently was held in open court, and Judge Capper's opinion stated that the record shows Mrs. Bosley became infatuated with a bartender in the spring and summer of 1945, and that details of testimony told by numerous witnesses led to the "inevitable conclusion that the parties were guilty of adultery."

The opinion dismissed Mrs. Bosley's cross-bill of complaint.

Estel C. Kelley represented Bosley and Paul M. Fletcher was attorney for Mrs. Bosley.

In a decree signed yesterday by Judge Capper, Mrs. Nellie Winona Emerick was granted an absolute divorce from Harold M. Emerick. Earl E. Manges was attorney for Mrs. Emerick.

Another decree signed by Judge Capper granted an absolute divorce to Charles F. Shumaker from Mrs. Wilda LaVerne Shumaker. Morris Baron represented Shumaker and Julius E. Schindler was attorney for the wife.

The court of appeals has confirmed a decision of Judge Capper and Chief Judge William A. Huster in which Mrs. Mary V. Sensabaugh received an absolute divorce and monthly alimony from Grover C. Sensabaugh. Clarence Shutter was attorney for Mrs. Sensabaugh and Edward J. Ryan represented the husband.

Hearing Is Planned For Men Charged With Beating Officer

Two local men charged with assaulting Officer Ernest M. Powell while the local policeman was trying to eject them after they created a disturbance in the Maryland hotel cocktail lounge Wednesday evening will be given a hearing in trial magistrates court today at 1:30 p. m.

The men, V. J. McIntosh, 142 Frederick street, an ex-soldier, and Technician Fifth Grade George A. Caffrey, 111 Frederick street, stationed at Camp Kilmer, N. J., are being held in the city jail on drunk and disorderly charges.

Officer Powell was injured, police said, when T-5 Caffery struck the officer with a heavy stool he picked up at the bar. Police said the soldier tried to break the neck from a beer bottle to strike the officer but that the whole bottle broke. The soldier was partially out of uniform at the time, military police said.

The assault took place, police said, after authorities at the liquor establishment refused to sell drinks to the men and were told they would get drinks or "wreck the place".

Police said neither the management of the place nor any of the occupants tried to interfere when the men ganged up on the policeman.

Callahan, sales manager of the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company, representing dealers of plumbing and heating equipment; D. Clifford Goodfellow, president of the Real Estate board; Edgar D. Vandegrift, contractors' representative; George Schwarzenbach, representing Cumberland merchants; and Vincent P. Ingram, representing local veterans' organizations.

Mayor Post said that if Cumberland is to share in the veterans' emergency housing program, it is necessary to appoint a housing committee and an expediter to work with the national agency so that the community may share in the priorities of buildings and materials.

In his letter to Mayor Post, Wyatt said goals have been set through the recent announcement of the emergency housing program calling for starting construction of 1,200,000 homes this year and 1,500,000 in 1947, all to be offered first for sale or rent to veterans, at reasonable prices.

Cites Special Problems

The housing expediter suggested that the committee appoint various sub-committees to handle special problems such as goals of the local emergency housing program; public relations; co-operation with the local housing referral center, and the possibility of modernizing building codes and zoning ordinances.

Wyatt added that Charles S. Ascher, New York city, is regional housing expediter for this area, and stated that a kit of information materials will be sent to Mayor Post from Ascher's office. Wyatt said that Ascher will have a representative contact members of the local group as soon as possible to work on a continuing basis with them.

H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, who assisted Mayor Post in drawing up a list of representatives to attend the meeting Monday, said that the committee should be kept limited in number and should act as an organizing group by choosing a chairman, discussing the program and expanding the committee to include any other representation that seems desirable.

All residents of the LaVale section are urged to attend the meeting in order that the vote on the constitution and by-laws will be representative of the section.

Following the meeting Monday it is planned to have another session in two weeks at which time 18 nominees for the board of directors will be voted upon and nine selected for membership on the group. A chairman, co-chairman, secretary and treasurer will also be elected at this meeting.

Visiting School Heads Impressed By Cafeteria Plan In County System

By JAMES B. CRAIG

Visiting school superintendents from twenty Maryland counties and other guests here for a two-day conference on cafeterias and pupil transportation were conducted on a countywide tour of school cafeterias yesterday and while the visitors admittedly had a "delightful" time exploring the school system's newer, more up-to-date buildings they said later they were especially impressed by the adaption of old buildings to conform with present standards. By this they meant they were impressed by the ingenuity school officials had employed in transforming old basements, coal bins and storerooms into attractive, airy cafeterias where it is a pleasure to eat.

As Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, explained, "Allegany county was selected for this conference because of the general excellence of its school cafeteria system and these people are here to observe just how Allegany county did it." Appreciating this fact, Superintendent Charles L. Kopp made every effort possible to see that the visitors saw every type of building in the system including the newest and the oldest.

This reporter was privileged to make the tour of the county with group six of the party which included Kopp, Pullen, Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the state board of education, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers college, Mrs. Gertrude Bowie, assistant state supervisor of home economics for the state board of education, Nicholas Orem, of the state board of education, Franklin D. Day, Queen Anne's county superintendent, and James M. Bennett, Wicomico county superintendent.

Fort Hill First Stop

The first stop for this particular group was Fort Hill high school where they were scheduled to inspect the cafeteria. The group inspected the cafeteria and also most of the school as well since the lure of open classrooms filled with students doing drafting and working on elaborate precision machines proved too great for the visitors. Mr. Lowndes, who was obviously having a delightful time, roamed from classroom to classroom talking to students and other members of the group did likewise. Eventually they reached the cafeteria where Mrs. George Legge explained that the school was now serving approximately 1,300 plate lunches. The

Rooms Are Sought For Vets Attending Ridgeley School

A move to find living quarters in Ridgeley, W. Va., for war veterans attending the Morgan Vocational Training school there was announced last night by William L. Dailey, adjutant of Khobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley.

Dailey said that any home owner in the Ridgeley area who has a room or rooms to rent should contact him or Paul K. Morgan, operator of the school.

Available rooms are to be used by veterans attending the training school, many of whom are disabled from service overseas, according to Dailey, who said Morgan wants to house as many as possible as close to the school as possible so that it will be more convenient for them.

Mosgan's school, the only one of its kind in West Virginia at the present time, is giving vocational instruction to West Virginia war veterans as well as to veterans from Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Average enrollment at the school is one year and, in many cases from two to three years, Dailey said Morgan told him in urging that families with vacant rooms offer them for rent to veterans attending the school.

Dailey can be contacted at Ridgeley 1712-W and Morgan can be reached at Ridgeley 3987.

New Coaches Are Put into Service By Bus Company

The first three of a Blue Ridge Transportation Company order of ten deluxe and completely modern interurban coaches arrived early yesterday and went into service out of Hagerstown for the first time last night.

By the end of this week the ten buses, ordered in 1943 and representing an investment of over $202,000, will have been delivered and will be operating through this city on Blue Ridge routes, according to bus company officials.

The new buses, recognizable by their trim which is slightly different from the familiar Blue Ridge pattern on the older coaches, are thirty-seven-passenger PCFs.

Innovations and improvements designed for both passenger and driver comfort and convenience have been incorporated in the new coaches. They feature efficient airconditioning, a two-foot longer body which provides greater leg room per seat and different spring construction.

One new touch in passenger comfort is provided by the individual light installed directly above each seat in the overhead baggage rack. This light is focused to give a comfortable quantity of light only in the user's lap while the passenger in the adjoining seat may have complete darkness.

Owner of Island In Potomac River Seeks Injunction

Charles Hansel Says He Is Denied Use of Road Leading to Property

Asking an injunction whereby he would be permitted to use a road leading to an island he owns in the north branch of the Potomac river near Rawlings, Charles S. Hansel yesterday filed suit in circuit court against Philip A. Evans who, he said, has taken possession of the land the road crosses and refuses him the right to use it.

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a temporary injunction ordering Evans to refrain from stopping, hindering or interferring with Hansel or his agents in the use of the road. Evans was given until May 10 to show why an injunction such as Hansel asks should not be granted.

Contains Tillable Land

Hansel, through his attorney, Thomas Lohr Richards, said the island contains about eight acres of tillable land on which he has been planting and harvesting farm crops every year since he acquired the property in 1924.

The only means of access to the island is over a "well defined" road from the McMullen highway across the lands now or lately belonging to Estella and Ezra Smith, Hansel asserted, pointing out that he used the road constantly for the past twenty-two years to reach the island and that the previous owners of the island used it for more than twenty years.

Hansel declared that he has a "lawful and a prescriptive right" to use the road.

Although no deed to the land has been filed in the county land records office in Evans's name, Evans has taken possession of the land, probably under a contract of sale, Hansel stated.

Threatened Arrest

On April 22, he added, the defendant stopped the agents of Hansel from using the road to go to the island, and then stopped them again the following day, pointing out no trespassing signs he erected in the road and threatening "forcibly" to stop them and have them arrested if they tried to use the road again.

Hansel declared that he has reason to believe Evans will continue to stop him and his agents from using the road and that there is "imminent danger of a breach of the peace."

Aged Woman Is Taken by Death

Rites for Mrs. Annie Louise Williamson, 98, Are Planned

Mrs. Annie Louise Williamson, 98, widow of Albert G. Williamson, and one of Cumberland's oldest residents, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her niece, Miss S. Margaret Reid, 215 Tilghman street.

Mrs. Williamson, although blind for the past fifteen years, was mentally alert and healthy until about six weeks ago when she suffered a general breakdown which ended in her death here yesterday.

A member of one of the pioneer families of Western Maryland, she was a daughter of Elisha and Sarah Ann Brown Fuller and was born in Garrett county September 21, 1848. She had resided in this city since infancy.

Mrs. Williamson enjoyed reminiscing of events in this area during the War between the States and especially loved to tell of being in the Old Nicholas hotel (now the Windsor) where her father was clerk, when McNeill and his rangers captured Crook and Kelly here.

She was the last surviving member of her immediate family. Among the fourteen nieces and nephews who survive are Mrs. R. Mason Hill, 601 Washington street, and Miss Reid, with whom she had made her home for the past ten years.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Stein funeral home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by the Rev. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist church, of which Mrs. Williamson had been a lifelong member.

Pallbearers will be Edward Cochran, Richard Cochran, John Treiber, Arthur Fuller, Walter Fuller and Perry B. Edmiston. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Creation of Building Fund for Use Of Airport Corporation Approved

Plan To Be Presented to Mayor, City Council for Approval

A supplemental agreement calling for the creation of a building fund for Cumberland Airways, Inc., the West Virginia corporation under which the Cumberland Municipal airport is being operated, was approved last night at a meeting of the municipal airport commission.

The agreement, drawn up by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney and a commission member, at the request of William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, who leased the airport from the city last November 13, calls for the sale by Graham of $50,000 in United States Treasury bonds which he deposited in escrow in the Second National bank after the lease contract was signed.

Proceeds of the sale are to be deposited in the bank in the name of "Cumberland Airways, Inc., Building Fund," and may be withdrawn by the corporation as needed for erection and improvement of buildings at the airport.

Council To Study Plan

The plan will be submitted to the mayor and city council for approval before it is put into effect.

Members of the commission voted to amend the agreement by specifying that cash from the building fund must be withdrawn in separate amounts not exceeding $5,000, and that vouchers for all building costs as that sum is reached must be submitted to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, for auditing and approval before the next $5,000 lot is withdrawn from the account.

The amendment was decided upon to provide the corporation with sufficient working funds to pay immediate bills as necesary without entailing countersigning of each bill as it was presented, and yet to permit the city to keep a check on the type and cost of construction being done at the airport.

Pointing out that all the money to be deposited in the building fund will belong to Graham, since it will be the proceeds from the sale of his own bonds, Edmund S. Burke, commission chairman, proposed that the commission should allow Graham to withdraw funds from the account at will, without requiring audits by the city.

After John A. Chapman, airport manager, said that Graham is willing to have expenditures from the building fund checked by the city, however, the commission decided to have Gibson audit vouchers for each cash lot of $5,000 withdrawn from the account.

The $50,000 worth of bonds was originally deposited in the bank by Graham to cover the erection of suitable buildings at the airport, under his agreement in the lease to spend a minimum of $50,000 in building construction.

Chapman said that the entire amount would be spent within six months if building materials could be obtained, adding that Graham plans to construct a two-story brick administration building with a restaurant, lobby and rest rooms, as well as additional hangars.

Spring Festival Is Applauded By Capacity Crowd

Guests From 20 Maryland Counties Attend Annual Program

A capacity crowd including visiting school officials from twenty Maryland counties last night went to Fort Hill high school to attend the annual music festival which has come to be regarded as part of the official trappings of spring in Allegany county, the same as the flowering of the dogwood.

Last night's concert did not disappoint the big audience and the 500 students comprising the combined groups of the high schools who participated in the festival gave it the usual colorful, springlike quality that never fails to please.

The program opened with three orchestra selections conducted by Frank R. Troy, Fort Hill high school. The selections included the Tannhauser march, Song of the Flame by George Gershwin and Stothart and the Gypsy Trial Overture, the latter number which had a happy, carefree swing to it that pleased the audience.

The large Boys glee club conducted by Mrs. Dorothy Sebree Pelling, of the Fort Hill high school faculty, sang "There Is No Death" by O'Hara, "Into the Night," Edwards and "Marching Along Together." Under Mrs. Pelling's capable direction, the glee club was effective, especially in the second number, Robert Heisey was accompanist.

The a cappella choir directed by Miss Dorothy Willison has long been high on the favorite lists of Cumberland music lovers, and this year's choir proved to be as colorful and effective as usual. Miss Willison, who always gets the best effort from her choirs with an economy of motion, last night scored with the audience as she capably directed her group in three numbers, Divine Praise, My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land and Oh, Susanna. The choir was superb in all three numbers.

The Girls Glee Club was directed by Miss Annetta Yates, Beall high school, in "Ho, Mr. Piper," "A Little Song of Life," and "Comin' Through the Rye." This group also proved popular with the audience.

Geraldine Gaston Mann, Flintstone high school, directed the girls' and boys' glee clubs in three numbers, "Prayer from Hansel and Gretel," "Roll de Ol' Chariot Along" and "Donkey Serenade," with the audience pleased by all three numbers.

The final group consisted of three selections by the combined bands directed by Joseph L. Derry, Central high school, playing King Cotton March, selection from "Sweethearts" and the "Crusaders." The band reminded the audience that while it may be spring, football season is really just around the corner.

The audience sang with the band playing the final number on the program, "The Star Spangled Banner."

The official program for the festival was made by the Allegany printing department and featured attractive light face stymie type.

They arrived here yesterday afternoon by automobile from Albany, Ga., where they have been conducting a nutrition demonstration and survey for the past six months.

A chemist is expected to arrive here after the first of next month to work with the unit. Laboratory work will be done in the Cumberland branch laboratory of the state department of health, on the third floor of the Public Safety building, Dr. Franklin said.

Office and laboratory equipment for the unit arrived here by truck from Washington, D. C. yesterday.

The purpose of the unit will be to make surveys of different economic groups in the Cumberland area and in adjacent sections of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, to discover any nutritional defects which may exist and to arrange for educational programs regarding the standards of nutrition which should be maintained.

The unit will remain in this area for at least a year, Dr. Franklin said. Funds for nutrition demonstration units were appropriated by Congress last year.

C of C Directors May Make Drive For Clean Streets

Discussing the condition of streets and sidewalks in the central business section particularly with regard to the damage done and eye injuries caused on windy days when dust, dirt, cinders and grit are blown about, chamber of commerce directors last night looked toward remedial measures.

Flushing the area with the fire hose, stricter enforcemnt of the sidewalk ordinance and other remedies were discussed, but it was decided to ask the Civic Improvement committee to study the subject and make a report for action.

A resolution was unanimously adopted requesting the Industrial committee to make a survey of cities of comparable size with the object of furthering a uniform policy on taxation of personal property used for business and industrial purposes in Cumberland.

Another resolution, also unanimously adopted, urged Rep. J. Glenn Beall to continue his efforts to get the approval of army engineers on the Cumberland flood control project and favorable action thereon by the Flood Control committee of the House of Representatives.

The April report of the United States Employment Service showed a registration of 3,898, of which 2,928 were men and 970 women, with 357 placements. Approximately 2,000 are ex-servicemen.

One of these is 3.1 miles northwest of Kitzmiller and the other near the Mount Zion school 3.6 miles north of Kitzmiller. Both are on the south east side of Backbone mountain. A total of 18,588 feet of holes has been drilled since this work was begun.

Absolute Divorce Granted by Judge To O. S. Bosley

In an opinion handed down in circuit court by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, an absolute divorce has been granted Oliver S. Bosley, 158 Frederick street, a B. and O. employe, from Mrs. Laura Mae Bosley.

Bosley filed suit for partial divorce August 23, 1945, saying his wife deserted him three days before. A short time later Mrs. Bosley filed a cross-bill of complaint charging her husband with deserting her June 1, 1945.

A hearing subsequently was held in open court, and Judge Capper's opinion stated that the record shows Mrs. Bosley became infatuated with a bartender in the spring and summer of 1945, and that details of testimony told by numerous witnesses led to the "inevitable conclusion that the parties were guilty of adultery."

The opinion dismissed Mrs. Bosley's cross-bill of complaint.

Estel C. Kelley represented Bosley and Paul M. Fletcher was attorney for Mrs. Bosley.

In a decree signed yesterday by Judge Capper, Mrs. Nellie Winona Emerick was granted an absolute divorce from Harold M. Emerick. Earl E. Manges was attorney for Mrs. Emerick.

Another decree signed by Judge Capper granted an absolute divorce to Charles F. Shumaker from Mrs. Wilda LaVerne Shumaker. Morris Baron represented Shumaker and Julius E. Schindler was attorney for the wife.

The court of appeals has confirmed a decision of Judge Capper and Chief Judge William A. Huster in which Mrs. Mary V. Sensabaugh received an absolute divorce and monthly alimony from Grover C. Sensabaugh. Clarence Shutter was attorney for Mrs. Sensabaugh and Edward J. Ryan represented the husband.

Hearing Is Planned For Men Charged With Beating Officer

Two local men charged with assaulting Officer Ernest M. Powell while the local policeman was trying to eject them after they created a disturbance in the Maryland hotel cocktail lounge Wednesday evening will be given a hearing in trial magistrates court today at 1:30 p. m.

The men, V. J. McIntosh, 142 Frederick street, an ex-soldier, and Technician Fifth Grade George A. Caffrey, 111 Frederick street, stationed at Camp Kilmer, N. J., are being held in the city jail on drunk and disorderly charges.

Officer Powell was injured, police said, when T-5 Caffery struck the officer with a heavy stool he picked up at the bar. Police said the soldier tried to break the neck from a beer bottle to strike the officer but that the whole bottle broke. The soldier was partially out of uniform at the time, military police said.

The assault took place, police said, after authorities at the liquor establishment refused to sell drinks to the men and were told they would get drinks or "wreck the place".

Police said neither the management of the place nor any of the occupants tried to interfere when the men ganged up on the policeman.

Callahan, sales manager of the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company, representing dealers of plumbing and heating equipment; D. Clifford Goodfellow, president of the Real Estate board; Edgar D. Vandegrift, contractors' representative; George Schwarzenbach, representing Cumberland merchants; and Vincent P. Ingram, representing local veterans' organizations.

Mayor Post said that if Cumberland is to share in the veterans' emergency housing program, it is necessary to appoint a housing committee and an expediter to work with the national agency so that the community may share in the priorities of buildings and materials.

In his letter to Mayor Post, Wyatt said goals have been set through the recent announcement of the emergency housing program calling for starting construction of 1,200,000 homes this year and 1,500,000 in 1947, all to be offered first for sale or rent to veterans, at reasonable prices.

Cites Special Problems

The housing expediter suggested that the committee appoint various sub-committees to handle special problems such as goals of the local emergency housing program; public relations; co-operation with the local housing referral center, and the possibility of modernizing building codes and zoning ordinances.

Wyatt added that Charles S. Ascher, New York city, is regional housing expediter for this area, and stated that a kit of information materials will be sent to Mayor Post from Ascher's office. Wyatt said that Ascher will have a representative contact members of the local group as soon as possible to work on a continuing basis with them.

H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, who assisted Mayor Post in drawing up a list of representatives to attend the meeting Monday, said that the committee should be kept limited in number and should act as an organizing group by choosing a chairman, discussing the program and expanding the committee to include any other representation that seems desirable.
